FEDERAL TAXATION CUTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Pooley Not Familiar With Junior Courts, States Mrs. MacGill

Attorney-General at No Time Voiced Any Complaint to Her, Says Woman Jurist Removed as Juvenile Court Judge of Vancouver.

Vancouver, March 1.—"I find it difficult to take Mr. Pooley's statement very seriously. It contains many absurdities and would seem to indicate the Attorney-General is not very familiar with juvenile court work," said Mrs. Helen Gregory MacGill to-day on reading a statement made by the Attorney-General in the Legislature at Victoria last night.

"In the first place, let me explain that I have never had one word of criticism, complaint or advice from Mr. Pooley or his department regarding my work as judge of the Juvenile Court of Vancouver since Mr. Pooley assumed office.

"His reference to the alleged complaint of officers that I had refused to commit girls brought up by them more than once, is, to my mind, ridiculous. Would he set up the officers as better authorities than the judge?"

TOTALS OF CASES

"Mr. Pooley's statement that the number of boys and girls brought before the court is about equal is simply absurdly inaccurate.

"In 1928 there were over 400 boys before the court and only fifty-eight girls. The latter fifty-eight were those who appeared officially before the court and could legally be committed. Even among them were many so young they could not have been committed. Of coures we handled in addition a great many dependent and neglected girls whose cases never come officially before the court.

JUDGMENT USED

"As to the charge that I refused to commit girls who should have been committed let me simply say I used my best judgment in every individual case.

PROBATION SYSTEM

"Let me remind Mr. Pooley that both the Federal and Provincial Juvenile Delinquent Acts make it imper-

Pooley Slaps Women's Face By Dismissal

Fired Judge For Very Humanitarian Practices Commended By Women

Women's organizations, whose membership embraces women of every political creed, have been aroused by the action of the Government in summarily dismissing Mrs. Helen Gregory MacGill from her position of judge of the Juvenile Court of Vancouver. The latest group to emulate the action of the Provincial Council of Women in placing itself on record as protesting against the action of the Government is the Women's Press Club of Vancouver, which is sending the following resolution to the authorities:

"In view of the long and valuable services of Judge Helen Gregory MacGill to the women and children of British Columbia, the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club at a special meeting on February 27, 1929, went on record as deploring the summary dismissal of an esteemed charter member of this club.

"The Women's Press Club feels that Mrs. MacGill's retirement is a regrettable loss to this Province."

Japan Receives Protest From China

Shanghai, March 1—The Kumin, official news agency of the National Chinese Government at Nanking, said the Foreign Office had protested today to the Japanese Government for its alleged connivance at the disorders in Shantung province.

Shelly's Method of Handling Trust Funds Subject to Criticism

In a forceful effective speech in the Budget debate yesterday in which he offered well-considered concrete suggestions on several subjects, pleaded for consideration for the coal industry of the Province now experiencing a difficult time, G. S. Pearson, Liberal, Nanaimo, also turned his attention to Hon. W. C. Shelly's presentation of the finances of the Province charging him with unfairness in withholding facts and partizanship in his Budget address.

The Finance Minister's announcement on trust funds aimed to create the impression that they had been mishandled drew fire from the Nanaimo member, who pointed out that the method was in use by other governments and authorities could be produced to show that Mr. Shelly's proposal to invest them in gilt-edge securities would be questioned.

TRUST FUNDS

"This is a pure matter of opinion," said Mr. Pearson. "Opinion which this Province will accept quite as authoritative as any the Minister has consulted can be produced to contend that the method of handling these funds by the Province is perfectly in order and is the method in use by other governments. And I will go as far as to say that we can produce eminent authority who will positively question the wisdom of the course the Minister proposes to pursue."

Pension Act Aids Pioneers

Many of Those Helped Are Men Who Opened Up Frontiers

Liberal Member Would Like to See Age Limit Cut to Sixty-five

Many of those in receipt of Old Age Pensions in British Columbia to-day are the pioneers who opened up the frontiers, the men who paved the way for the wonderful Province British Columbia is to-day, and in the work of pioneering spent their money and were not able to take advantage of the opportunities they created for those that followed, Frank M. MacPherson, Liberal, Cranbrook, declared in the Budget address in the Legislature yesterday, after referring to the Finance Minister's direction to the growing cost of social legislation.

"We owe a debt to these old pioneers," said Mr. MacPherson. "This Legislature should never curtail these charges, as the Finance Minister calls them; which make the last days of these fine old pioneers a little brighter. I wish the age could be reduced to sixty-five."

Mr. MacPherson also touched on widows' pensions and mothers' pensions, and expressed the hope as further expenditures were required, the Government would assume them. "I wonder if the Finance Minister or any other person in this House could educate and bring up a family of boys on the mere pittance a widow received" he asked "They have a right to this assistance and every nickel spent will be returned to the Province, not in the cold figures of a finance budget, but in the human element."

Touching on the Marketing Act, he said it should apply to zones or regions. Speaking of the interior, he remarked that unless legislation was passed, an increase in timber royalties would go into effect at the end of this year. The market for lumber had declined for five years, he said, and expressed the hope that the increase would not go into effect.

Onus Is Lifted From Board Say Members

By-law Result Is Mandate to Exclude Saanich Pupils, Says Trustee G. A. A. Hebden

Trustee W. C. Moresby, K.C., States Inquiry Into All Tuition Fees Payable Indicated

Discussion of the policy of the City School Board in regard to Saanich and other outside pupils at Victoria High School will be the major item of business on the agenda of the board for a meeting called for early next week, it was learned to-day.

Trustee G. A. A. Hebden, a member of the city board, regarded the vote on the Technical School By-law as significant.

"The ratepayers have taken the onus off the School Board in respect to the Technical School," he said. "So far as I am concerned there is no talk of resigning. It would be the easiest thing in the world to do; but probably the most constructive thing we can do is to dig in and see if we can discover some solution of the difficulty."

"The vote is tanamount to a mandate from the people to exclude Saanich pupils at Victoria High School, and also to very thoroughly examine the cause for any repetition that may occur. Even granting that we reach a wise solution of these things, it will not mean a final solution of the problem by any means. The best we can do is to try what remedy may be found," concluded Mr. Hebden, who said he did not regard the referendum as intended as a final deathknell to all technical education.

Trustee W. C. Moresby, K.C., was at first disinclined to discuss the defeat of the by-law, in advance of the next meeting of the board. Informed of the statement by Mr. Hebden, however, Mr. Moresby said he fully endorsed that view.

"The mandate not only means the exclusion of Saanich pupils, but further investigation into the matter of imposing tution fees in all cases where the board has the right by statute to do so, and to the full extent of the cost of that tuition," said Trustee Moresby.

The question of what was to be done about Saanich students would come before the board at an early date, concluded Mr. Moresby.

Federal Surplus For Year Ending With This Month Is $69,782,000, States Robb

Parliament Asked to Reduce Sales Tax From Three to Two Per Cent and Abolish Taxes on Railway and Ship Tickets and Telegrams; Budget Plans Outlined By Finance Minister.

OUTLINES FEDERAL FINANCE PLANS

HON. J. A. ROBB
Minister of Finance

Ottawa, March 7.—Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, presented his annual budget statement to the House of Commons this afternoon. He announced:

Reduction of the sales tax from three to two per cent.

Abolition of the tax on railway and steamship tickets and the tax on telegrams.

Tariff changes designed to reduce taxation and to lessen the costs of production.

Estimated surplus of total revenues over total expenditures for the current fiscal year ending with this month of $69,782,000.

Estimated total revenues for the current year of $454,942,000.

Estimated total expenditures for the current fiscal year amounting to $385,160,000.

Reduction of the net debt of Canada for the present fiscal year of $69,782,000.

A favorable trade balance for Canada of $154,100,000 for ten months of the fiscal year.

That the Government will pay the $60,000,000 loan maturing on August 1 next out of surplus, thereby effecting an annual interest saving of $13,300,000.

Total reduction in the net debt during the last six years of $226,-708,000.

A crowded House and galleries followed the Finance Minister as he presented his review of the present fiscal year and his taxation proposals for that which is to come. From the outset his speech was optimistic. Official figures, he said, showed "a steady and continuous reduction of both debt and rates of taxation."

CUSTOMS AND EXCISE

Then he proceeded to discuss the ordinary revenues and expenditures of the Dominion for the present fiscal year, which will close March 31. Customs revenues for the year he estimated at approximately $185,000,000, or more than forty-one per cent of the total revenue. The amount realized from excise taxes (sales and stamp taxes) he gave as approximately $81,-500,000; income tax, $58,500,000; excise duties, $63,400,000.

The total revenue from taxation he estimated at $391,050,000.

Estimated customs revenues would show an increase of $28,-000,000 over the previous fiscal year, said Mr. Robb. The total amount collected in excise duties also would record an estimated increase of about $6,000,000.

Income tax collections as estimated would show an increase of nearly $2,-000,000. The largest decrease recorded would be in the excise taxes (sales and stamp), which probably would be lower than the previous year by $8,-700,000, he said.

WAR OUTLAYS

Of the total expenditure, the Finance Minister attributed approximately forty-two per cent to the Great War. This was made up of the increase in interest payments on the public debt over the 1914 figure, which was $112,-107,000. War pensions would account for $40,600,000 and soldiers' civil re-establishment approximately $7,900,000. Other expenditures due to the war would bring the total up to $162,911,-000. The interest on the public debt as of 1914 the Finance Minister placed at $12,803,000. General departmental expenditures were given as $178,118,000, or forty-six per cent of the total amount.

"Without being unduly optimistic," said Mr. Robb, "the Government feels it is warranted in anticipating that, notwithstanding the reductions to be submitted in this budget, the revenues for the coming fiscal year will meet all expenditure obligations and also provide for the redemption of the loans maturing in August next."

In his brief reference to tariff matters, the Finance Minister intimated that other things being equal his was a policy "of favoring those countries which favor our products."

There was no direct reference in the speech to the fiscal policy of the United States, but Mr. Robb spoke of Canada's increasing foreign trade in a way which suggested Canada has adopted a policy of "watchful waiting."

EXPORT TRADE

"It is our desire to trade freely with any and all who are willing to trade with us," he said. "What may or may no be possible in this regard, necessarily depends in some measure on the purchasing power and the fiscal policies of other countries. The policy of this administration is not a high tariff policy; it is a low tariff policy. Its policy is to encourage production at home and the marketing of our excess production abroad. In applying this policy, both domestic and international factors must of necessity be considered.

RATE BY-LAW 1929 FINALLY PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

A revenue of $2,565,000 is provided for in the final passage of the rate by-law, 1929, by the City Council last night.

At a two-minute session the council gave final sanction to a mill rate of 41 mills on 100 per cent of the value of land, and on 50 per cent of the value of improvements. The levy, which is the same as that in force last year, will produce $1,609,766, to which is added $10,000 in fixed taxation from the Empress Hotel, and estimated receipts finally placed at $945,234. The rates are payable nominally on August 15, with the first penalty addition of four per cent applying on October 1, and the second addition of four per cent on October 15.

Tax On Rail Tickets to End

Federal Budget Announcements Also Include Removal of Telegram Tax

Ottawa, March 1—The Federal budget takes another one per cent off the sales tax, bringing it down to two per cent. This was the most important changes announced in the speech delivered in the Commons this afternoon by Hon. J. A. Robb.

The tax on the sale and transfer of stocks is changed from a flat rate of three cents to a graduated scale of from one cent to four cents.

The tax on insurance premiums other than life and marine of one per cent is abolished.

The tax on railway and steamship tickets is to be removed. This will take effect on May 1.

The tax of three cents on telegrams and cables is abolished.

The total loss of revenue from the reductions in tariff and other taxes is estimated at $25,000,000.

The transportation tax which is abolished (section 29 of the Special War Revenue Act) is a tax of five cents on tickets over $1 and less than $5, and over $5, for each additional $5, five cents; steamships, $1—when fare exceeds $10 but less than $40, then $3 up to $65, above that a $5 tax; chair cars, ten cents; sleeping cars, ten per cent. These will be abolished from May 1, 1929.

Mine Machinery Duties to Be Cut

Tariff Reductions Announced at Ottawa Also Will Benefit Fishermen

Ottawa, March 1—Most of the thirty-four changes in the tariff, provided in to-day's budget are in the nature of adjustments.

The sales tax is reduced from 3 to 2 per cent.

Rates on duty on certain machinery and equipment used in the mining industry have been reduced. The present rate is 15 British preference; 25 per cent intermediate and 27½ general. The new rate is 10 per cent; 15 per cent and 20 per cent, respectively.

The lower duties on engines for fishermen's boats are extended to include parts.

Request of horticulturists for reduction in certain bulb sterilizing apparatus has been granted.

PRINTING MACHINERY

Some reductions are made in printing machinery.

Provision is made for the Government to levy a duty of half a cent a pound on copper rods if found advisable.

Rates on side cars for motorcycles are reduced to the same as on motorcycles.

TO STUDY ANCIENT GREECE

Vancouver, March 1.—Homer A. Thompson, who graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1925, has been appointed to a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship of $1,500 a year for archaeological research in Greece. This fellowship is renewable for three years.

Recommend Industries Department Abolition

A recommendation to the Legislature that the Department of Industries be abolished and that the work in hand be handled by the Finance Department with the Department of Works giving technical assistance was endorsed by the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature this morning. The report expressed the view that the necessity for the department no longer existed.

In the course of the debate on the recommendation which was opposed by Liberal members on the committee, T. H. Kirk, Conservative, Vancouver, pointed out no recommendation was made to dispense with the services of Lieutenant-Colonel Don Martyn, who is at the head of this department and also the Bureau of Industries. If the Finance Department thought him a valuable man they could retain his services to handle the added duties.

IN TOUCH WITH LOANS

A. M. Manson, K.C., Liberal, Omineca, and G. S. Pearson, Liberal, Nanaimo, both opposed the recommendation. Mr. Manson pointed out that Colonel Martyn was closely in touch with the loans and could realize on them better than someone unfamiliar with the circumstances. Mr. Pearson pointed out that he was in the position of a collecting agency to see the Government got the return of money outstanding.

The chairman, George Walkem, Conservative, Vancouver, said the investigations into the affairs of the department by the committee had convinced him that the loans were now in a position to take care of themselves. The department in many instances was helping competitive industries and the department as a department had no place in the Government.

H. D. Twigg, Conservative, Victoria, voiced the opinion that the department was a standing jest. Many were of the opinion last year, including Liberals, that the department should go.

Race By Air To Get Wealth In Frozen Zone

Prospectors From Skagway and Edmonton Cut Time By Aeroplanes

One of the most thrilling of the countless races and stampedes in various parts of this continent for mineral wealth is being staged by prospectors with aeroplanes over the frozen northern part of British Columbia, in back of the Alaska Panhandle.

Telegraphic dispatch from Telegraph Creek, B.C., this morning to The Times announced that W. B. George had reached there by aeroplane from Skagway and Whitehorse, and had thus jumped into the lead over a group of prospectors rushing into the same area by aeroplane through Edmonton.

The mineral wealth in the rush for which the prospectors have called on the aeroplane and are facing privation and death in the frozen and absolutely desolate north at this time of the year, consists of big copper and lead deposits in the Cassiar and Leard district. This area is practically unexplored, but the Geological Survey of Canada has made investigations there and recently

RAILROAD ALMOST IN SIGHT OF HUDSON BAY COAST NOW

Winnipeg, March 1.—Steel is now within nineteen miles of the wharf at Fort Churchill. According to a report received this morning by H. A. Dixon, chief engineer of the Western region of the Canadian National Railways, the line reached mile 491 on Wednesday of this week. On that day 5,900 feet of steel were laid. At mile 505 is a ballast pit which is an important objective and the dock is at mile 510. Stormy weather hindered the workers of late, but it is expected steel will reach the bay at the end of the month or early in April. The telegraph line is now close to Churchill.

Joe Maynard Died Yesterday

Pioneer Known as "Uncle Joe" Came Here Via Cape Horn Sixty Years Ago

Mr. Maynard was born in Bute, Cornwall, and in his early twenties felt the call of the new world. He came to Victoria via Cape Horn on the sailing ship Lady Lampson sixty years ago, and after settling here entered the express business. After running that with success for a number of years he took up farming at Cadboro Bay, conducting a successful farm for thirty years.

Latterly he has resided at 133 Oswego Street. He was predeceased by his wife about ten years ago. He is survived by three nephews and a niece here, Albert H. James and Harry Maynard, and Mrs. (Capt.) Hinds, and a nephew Harry Bate, and niece, Mrs. Spry in England.

House Launches Full Inquiry Into Whole Milk Problem In B.C.

Vancouver's milk problem and milk marketing generally in British Columbia went before the agricultural committee of the Legislature to-day for intensive investigation, when the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association asked for the passage of its new milk bill.

To-day's hearing developed an immediate clash between those supporting the bill and independent interests which declared it would aggravate the present milk situation.

The session this morning dealt only with the broad principles of the bill, under which losses on the sale of surplus milk would be distributed over all producers. Further sessions will go into the bill in detail and next week the Vancouver City Council will be allowed to make representations on the matter.

The inquiry opened with a general explanation of the bill by those in support of it.

J. B. Williams, Vancouver City solicitor, asked that discussion be postponed until next Thursday so that the Vancouver civic authorities could have an opportunity of considering the milk bill thoroughly. It was arranged that Mr. Williams listen to the argument to-day and return next week and present the views of the city council.

W. L. Macken, representing the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, explained that dairymen of the Fraser Valley have an investment of $30,000,000.

He said the principle of the new milk bill had been endorsed in Dean Clement's milk report. The bill was essentially the same in principle as that presented a year ago, he added.

He argued that it was "just and equitable" that the results of the sale of dairy produce other than liquid milk should be distributed over all dairymen in any area adopting the new scheme, as all dairymen benefited by the sale of these products and the consequent relief in the fluid milk market.

This distribution of the results of the sale of manufactured dairy products would be made by a committee of adjustment, he said.

NO COMPROMISE ON MILK BILL

Independent Interests to Fight Control of Vancouver Situation

There can be no compromise on the new Vancouver Milk Bill to be laid before the Agricultural Committee of the Legislature to-day by the Fraser Valley Milk Producers Association. This announcement was made here yesterday by independent Vancouver milk dealers, headed by E. G. Sherwood, and indicates that the Government's effort to reconcile the two sides of the milk controversy is likely to collapse.

Mr. Sherwood declared yesterday it was impossible to compromise on the basis of the proposed bill, under which losses sustained on the sale of surplus milk would be ditributed over dairymen generally in any area adopting the measure. A fight on the bill before the Agricultural Committee and in the House is thus assured.

Yesterday a Government spokesman said it was hoped a compromise could be reached and this announcement brought the independent interests here to make it clear that they would accept nothing like the proposed milk bill.

Tito Schipa Hard Worker

Intense Study Brought Perfection to To-night's Singer; At Royal Victoria

When we listen to a great singer like Tito Schipa, who will be heard at the Royal Victoria to-night at 8.30, we do not always realize what gifts and what tremendous work are necessary to make success. After having mastered the bel canto, the perfect old Italian school of singing, which so few acquire, Schipa studied his roles for opera. When he was twenty years old, he made his debut at Vercelli, Italy, in the leading role in "Traviata." His success was instantaneous.

Other roles that made his immense repertory were the leading tenor ones in "Lucia," "Rigoletto," "Don Pasquale," "Elixir d' Amore," "Donna Curiose," "Amico Fritz," "Barbiere di Seviglia," "Boheme" and Puccini's "La Rondine," in which he created the part of Ruggero at Monte Carlo in 1918. All these operas were sung in Italian. In French he sang leading tenor roles in "Lakme," "Manon," "Werther" and "Mignon."

He was famous in opera, still he was not satisfied. Concert singing, that most difficult branch of all, appealed to him still more strongly than did opera. In it he would be able to paint a picture with his voice alone, without aid of brilliant scenery, costumes and acting. The thought of putting his powers to full test fired him to enthusiasm, which meant also intense study. He gave, and still gives, hours of thought to the simplest song he is to sing in public.

From the day he entered the concert field, Schipas celebrity there has progressed by leaps and bounds. He has a wonderful voice, fine intelligence and a magnetic personality, and he is in the foremost rank of the great concert singers of all time. His Victor recordings reveal a voice of great beauty, and of his concert here to-night he will sing several of the songs which have endeared him to the multitudes who have heard them.

Schipa is the greatest artist who has appeared in Victoria since Galli-Curci, with whom he appeared two different seasons, and is here under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical Club.

Royal Victoria—Tito Schipa.

SPLENDID DOUBLE BILL ATTRACTION AT THE COLISEUM

It is not often that Victoria theatregoers have an opportunity of witnessing a double bill of stage and screen attractions of the high calibre as now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. The Coliseum Players, a show in themselves, combine with one of the greatest picture releases of the year, "Submarine," to make an evening's entertainment not often given to followers of the stage in this city.

"Submarine," featuring that popular actor, Jack Holt, is a picture of a great undersea disaster. The scenes of the film were photographed off the California Coast between San Francisco and San Pedro, and some of the greatest underwater pictures ever developed are seen in this mighty screen drama, which is both thrilling and delighting record houses at the Coliseum.

On the stage, the Coliseum Players, under the direction of Raymond "Toby" Leitch, are providing lots of laughs with another of their stage comedies, entitled "Honest Sinners and Saintly Hypocrites." Coming as it does as a relief to the tension of "Submarine," the stage play is all the more popular and all members of the cast give fine impersonations in their respective roles. Those having parts this week are Mr. Leitch, Miss Leone Webber, Miss Ada Daniels, Miss Esther Todd, Paul Wallace, Forrest Taylor, Leon Cluff and Lorus Bagsley.

GRIPPING PICTURE OF THE NORTH NOW AT THE PLAYHOUSE

That the public is ready for striking novelties in motion pictures has been demonstrated by the success of the run of "The Great White North" at the Playhouse Theatre. With no love story, but with an amazing succession of startling shots of bird and animal and sea life and magnificent scenic backgrounds, this production has now shown that the public craves stark drama in places where life and death are traveling companions.

Even without the world wide interest in the Arctic caused by the privations of General Nobile and his men and the mystery surrounding the fates of those still missing, Manager Calladine is convinced this picture would have been warmly received.

No film before has ever combined the thrills of a hunt in a school of whales, a struggle for the capture of polar bears, battles with walrus, the sweeping panorama of thousands of reindeer and the solemn discovery of the remains of men of the Stefannsson expedition who had lost in the struggle against Nature's odds.

TOM MIX, ASSISTED BY HIS HORSE, ON COLUMBIA SCREEN

Having accomplished about everything that can be done on, under, around and about a horse, Tom Mix has gone to the other extreme in the matter of four-legged transportation and has taken to a camel.

At least he is seen on the heaving deck of a "ship of the desert" in his newest offering, "Drums of Araby," the F.B.O. production at the Columbia Theatre, the locale of which is in the Moroccan country in northern Africa. Tony, the "wonder horse" of the famous Western star, plays a big part in the action, of course, but the camel ambles in with Tom aboard towards the close of the picture. It was directed by Robert De Lacey, and Sally Blaine plays the feminine lead, with Lew Meehan, Frank Leigh, Barney Furey and Wynn Mace also in the cast.

FINE VAUDEVILLE ACT ON THE STAGE AT THE CAPITOL

Charles Rogers's musicianship serves him well in his new starring picture, "Someone to Love," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre and will show to-day and Saturday. In the opening sequence, Rogers plays the role of a sheet music salesman whose personality and ability to thump out the new tunes keep a line of customers in front of his counter.

The youthful Paramount star paid his way through three years at the University of Kansas and toured much of Europe because of his musical knowledge. In school he played the trombone with a dance orchestra. Between his junior and senior years he, with several talented friends, went through Spain and France, playing their way as they went. They made the trip across the Atlantic on a stock boat loaded with mules.

The stage specialties at the Capitol Theatre for this week include June and Weldon, a comedy dance team, Kennedy and Cortez in a novelty vaudeville skit, along with Aimee, hailed as queen of the chromatic accordion. The supporting acts include Jack Reed, the popular singing M.C. and the Capitol stage band.

STRONG PLOT IS FEATURE OF FILM AT THE DOMINION

William Powell, the suave villain of many Paramount productions, for the first time in his film life does not have to pursue a young lady for a kiss. Rather, Powell is himself pursued by no less a person than Evelyn Brent for his affections!

The reason for Powell's having the tables turned in his latest appearance before the camera is because he is one of the four central characters making up the cast of the all-talking picture "Interference," at the Dominion Theatre all this week. It is a Paramount picture.

Powell portrays the role of Philip Voaze, a veteran of many love affairs. Among these is Evelyn Brent who enacts the role of Deborah Kane. She discovers Powell after he has been reported killed in the war, and it seems that she is the only one who really loves him. Powell, however, desires to be forgotten by her, hence his being pursued by the beautiful Miss Brent.

Failing to gain this, Miss Brent starts to blackmail the wife of Sir John Marlay, roles portrayed by Doris Kenyon and Clive Brook respectively. She blackmails Miss Keyon because Powell loves her, and, previous to her marriage to the English surgeon, Marlay, they had had a love affair.

Seeing that Miss Kenyon wishes to forget him, however, and also seeing that her reputation and happiness is about to be ruined through the scheming Miss Brent, Powell conspires to save the happiness of the wife in one of the most interesting climaxes imaginable.

stive that probation be used as a corrective as far as possible and that commitment to an industrial home is the very last resort.

"For years past I have had the assistance of the highly trained social workers employed by city organizations in this probation work" said Mrs. MacGill. "I must say it is a queer thing to hear a judge criticized for not filling up a place like the Industrial School, which has only accommodation for forty-eight when filled.

"Sometime ago two girls whom I had committed to the Industrial School were sent to Oakalla without my being consulted in any way, although the act provides that the committing judge should be consulted. A little later they were returned to the Industrial School at the instance of the governor of the jail, as I am informed.

"As to the statement that I allowed girls out on suspended sentence, surely Mr. Pooley knows that is the very essence of juvenile court reclamation work everywhere. We must use probation to the utmost. Under the act there is but one sentence, an indeterminate term in the Industrial School for not less than two years. Of course there can be remission or shortening of the term if the girl makes a good record at the school.

"Mr. Pooley speaks of my refusing to send girls to the 'home' and I may point out that the detention home is simply a place where juveniles are kept temporarily until their cases are disposed of. The Industrial School is the only place to which they are committed."

Seattle, March 1.—A series of earthquakes, two of them heavy, were recorded by the University of Washington seismograph last night and early to-day.

The first and heaviest shocks began at 11.32 last night, reaching their maximum at 11.35 and lasting for an hour. University officials said the record seemed to indicate the centre of the disturbance was about 400 miles from Seattle in either a southeasterly or northwesterly direction.

The second shock began at 12.56 a.m. to-day and ended at 1.20 a.m. It reached its maximum at 12.57. This shock was not as strong as the first.

FEDERAL TAXATION CUTS ARE ANNOUNCED

TEXT OF SPEECH

Mr. Robb said:

"Mr. Speaker—The general optimism prevailing throughout Canada has, during recent months, been so widely reflected and strongly emphasized in provincial Legislative Assemblies, annual reviews and financial statements that, in presenting this annual budget little need be said beyond submitting official figures which, when analyzed and compared with the records of previous years, will show a steady and continuous reduction of both the debt and rates of taxation.

"The fiscal year ends, as you know, on the thirty-first of March, consequently when, on February 16, 1928, the annual budget statement for 1927-28 was presented, it was necessary to make an estimate of the total revenues and expenditures. The public accounts for that year have since been tabled and give in detail the various revenues and expenditures and show that after transferring certain old and doubtful assets and soldiers' settlement loan adjustments from active to non-active assets, the actual net reduction for the fiscal year 1927-28 was $50,137.17.

1928-29 REVENUES

"For the fiscal year 1928-29, which will end March 31, it is estimated the ordinary revenues will be $450,000,000, which with special receipts from reparation payments of $3,500,000 and receipts of $1,400,000 from the Imperial Government in final adjustment of disputed claims, together with $42,000 miscellaneous receipts, makes the total estimated revenues for the year about $454,942,000. This will be $28,000,000 over the previous year; excise duties $63,400,000, an increase of $6,000,000; income tax, $58,000,000, an increase of $1,900,000; interest on investments, including $1,500,000 interest derived from temporary investments of our surplus cash holdings, $11,600,000 an increase of $660,000, and revenues from other sources, $16,350,000, an increase of $840,000.

"Services which it is estimated will show decreases are:

"Excise taxes, sales, stamps, etc. $81,500,000, a decrease of $8,700,000 from the previous year; delayed business profits tax, $450,000, a decrease of $500,000; postoffice, $31,000,000, a decrease of $560,000; and miscellaneous services, $2,200,000, a decrease of $370,000.

1928-29 EXPENDITURES

"Our ordinary expenditures for the year are estimated at $355,200,000. This includes payments made under authority of the Maritime Freight Rates be an increase of $25,000,000 over the revenues for 1927-28.

"It is estimated the customs revenues will be $185,000,000, an increase of Act, 1927, of $2,992,000 to meet the twenty per cent reduction in maritime freight rates and $4,303,000 to meet deficits on eastern lines. It also includes $1,600,000 by way of special grants to the Maritime Provinces, $800,000 to be paid to the provinces of British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba as the Dominion's share of old age pensions payments, and $2,190,000 to the Federal District Commission under authority of the Federal District Commission Act as amended in 1928.

"The capital expenditures are estimated as $24,150,000 and special expenditures at $1,937,000. In addition, loans in cash to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine are estimated at $1,000,000 and to the Quebec Harbor Commission $2,873,000. As these loans are carried as non-active assets, the amounts are included as expenditures for the year.

"The total estimated expenditures will therefore be $385,160,000, an increase of $22,532,000 over the expenditures of the previous year.

SURPLUS $69,782,000

"By deducting the estimated total expenditures of $385,160,000 from the estimated total revenues of $454,942,000 it will be observed that the estimated surplus of revenues over all expenditures for the current fiscal year is $69,782,000.

COMPARISON MADE

"For the convenience of the members, may I, with the consent of the House, place on Hansard a comparative summary showing the actual revenues and expenditures by services for 1927-28 and the corresponding estimated revenues and expenditures for the current fiscal year, also a statement of the estimated ordinary revenues and the estimated expenditures, by services, for the present fiscal year, together with their percentages to the total revenues of expenditures, as the case may be?

Death of Leader Widely Mourned

Passing of Sir James Aikins Removes Outstanding Manitoba Figure

Winnipeg, March 1.—From all parts of the Manitoba and from every province of Canada to-day came messages of regret at the death last midnight of Sir James Albert Manning Aikins, K.C., former Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba and long a distinguished citizen of Winnipeg.

Lady Aikins is en route to-day from Victoria, B.C., to Winnipeg, and it is probable the funeral arrangements will not be announced until her arrival.

A sudden heart attack which had prevented Sir James being present last Monday evening at an elaborate function on his fiftieth anniversary as a member of the bar led to an unexpected turn last night and death came at midnight.

THREE LOSSES

It was the third time since the beginning of 1929 that the final summons had come to one who had held the post of Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. On January 18, Hon. Theodore A. Burrows, successor of Sir James Aikins as Lieutenant-Governor, died in office. Hon. J. C. Patterson, who held the office from 1895 to 1900, died on February 17.

Besides the widow, one son, two daughters and three sisters survive Sir James Aikins, Major Harold Aikins, K.C., with whom Sir James was residing in Winnipeg; Mary Helens, wife of Major F. J. Ney, Victoria, B.C., and Elizabeth Grace, wife of E. O. Ney, Kenya, East Africa, and the sisters, Mrs. J. E. Graham, Mrs. J. H. Forster and Mrs. Clara Aikins, all of Toronto.

Tainted Food Kills Two in Montreal

Montreal, March 1.—P. W. Robertson, assistant sales manager of the International Pulp and Paper Company, Montreal, and his five-year-old daughter, Phyllis, died of ptomaine poisoning believed to have been caused through eating tainted food last night. Mrs. Robertson and a son, Kenneth, are in hospital.

announced some of its conclusions from Ottawa indicating the probability of the largest metal deposits yet found in Canada being opened in that area.

SLIPPED AWAY QUIETLY

While Mr. George, who was the discoverer of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's George Copper near the Alaska boundary was preparing to enter the field at the opening of Spring, word came of the plans of one of the big mining corporations of Canada to put their men first on the metal properties by means of a fleet of three aeroplanes of the Northern Aerial Mineral Exploration Company under Capt. H. A. Oakes and starting out from Edmonton.

Taking his surveyor, P. M. Monckton, also of Victoria, with him, Mr. George slipped away from Victoria ten days ago, chartered the aeroplane of the Yukon Airways Limited, and the two of them with Pilot Patterson in command of the plane, set off through Skagway and Whitehorse into the vast, snow-covered interior unknown.

TRIP OF WEEKS IN HOURS

To make the trip by the usual dog team over the snow would have taken weeks for the explorers going in from both Alaska and the Edmonton sides. The dispatch from Telegraph Creek to-day says that Mr. George and his party left Whitehorse at 10 o'clock yesterday, made Atlin in half an hour and reached Telegraph Creek two hours later. By means of the aeroplane, Mr. George said at Telegraph Creek yesterday, they are making in four hours a trip that would have taken them four weeks by dog team, and would have entailed much suffering.

BEATING STAMPEDE

Both the Edmonton and the Skagway mineral explorers by aeroplane will be weeks ahead of the thousands of prospectors who are expected to invade the northern mineral area with the opening of Spring. Capt. Oakes said that it was this indication of a stampede that decided his associates that it would be unprofitable to wait until the Spring break-up and caused them to speed up their plans and risk going in in the middle of Winter by aeroplane.

Men reaching Edmonton from the north state that some outfits have already pulled out from Fort St. John on the Peace River. The parties going in by this route were well equipped with dogs and supplies, but they will not be able to compete with the prospectors who are using the aeroplane.

Besides the danger from the cold in the frozen north, the intrepid prospectors are facing danger from the Nahanni Indians, who are reported to have threatened death to any white man attempting to enter their country.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. (Advt.)

THE FINAL DECISION

YESTERDAY'S VOTE ON THE Technical School bylaw means the abandonment of the proposal as far as this city is concerned. The apathy on the part of the voters, incidentally, is a striking commentary upon their attitude towards education, since only one-third of those qualified to vote availed themselves of the privilege.

The Times regrets the result of the vote. It supported the proposal because it believed its adoption by the taxpayers of this city would have been good business for themselves in an economic sense, good business for the community at large, and of very considerable benefit to the youth of Victoria. We are quite convinced, however, in spite of yesterday's vote, that the majority of the people of this city are in favor of it.

What course the Board of School Trustees will pursue under the circumstances obviously will not be known until its members have conferred. The defeat of the bylaw will compel them to devise ways and means of relieving the conditions at the High School which made it necessary for them to ask the taxpayers to approve yesterday's proposal. They are faced with a task which is far from simple. No matter what action now is taken, moreover, the fact remains that more accommodation soon will have to be provided at the High School, or we shall discover parents applying to Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt for permission to send their children to their High Schools.

The most serious feature of the situation is the fact that several families have left Victoria in order that their children might have technical training. Beyond doubt we shall lose quite a lot of our young people to Vancouver, where there are adequate facilities for this form of instruction.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

THOSE MEMBERS OF THE GOVernment party in the Legislature who defend their opposition to old age pension legislation by declaring they always favored the principle are not very convincing. They tell us that pensions should be paid at sixty-five and not at seventy, that the pension should be higher, and that other restrictions which the Parliament of Canada has considered wise to include in this first experiment of such legislation should be eliminated or amended.

What these critics do not discuss is the fact that the adoption of this legislation by the late Government has brought more than a little comfort to something like 3,500 old people in British Columbia. It suits them to ignore the fact also that if the late Government had heeded the objections of the members of the then opposition, and had wasted valuable time in efforts to persuade the Dominion Parliament that it should alter the provisions of the Act it had passed, these old people still would be waiting for the monthly cheque which has been so welcome. For if Mr. Shelly's attitude towards this form of "paternalism" be any criterion, the present Government would have found a number of new excuses for delay in availing itself of the Federal Act, with its fifty-fifty contributory arrangement with the provinces.

Incidentally, it is twenty-one years since Great Britain passed its old age pension legislation—and it is still in force. In Canada it is in operation in British Columbia, Alberta, and Manitoba, with the promise of Ontario coming into line very soon.

MAY 24

IT SHOULD BE SAFE TO ASSUME that the offer of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to stage the celebration on May 24 will be accepted when it is made at the public meeting which Mayor Anscomb has called for next Tuesday evening.

The organization of last year's event was admirably carried out by the Junior Chamber. Not only was the celebration a striking success in itself; those responsible for it were in the happy position of being able to turn over a surplus of more than a thousand dollars.

This annual celebration is not intended as a money maker. A deficit usually has had to be met. But when the event makes money and surpasses in novelty and interest those that have gone before it, it is highly satisfactory.

HUNDRED PER CENT EFFICIENT

THE INSURANCE AND COMMERcial section of the Vancouver Board of Trade was told by Chief of Police Bingham of that city the other day that in 1928 in Great Britain there had been twenty-four murders for which twenty-two persons had been hung and two sent to prison for life.

Two dozen murders in a population of something like forty-seven millions in twelve months suggests that the inexorable process of the law in Great Britain has a big effect upon the criminal mind. He who takes a life over there usually seals his own fate at the same time. It is the same in Canada.

Our friends in Chicago, however, might note both the number of crimes which were committed and the number of murderers brought to book. The gangsters of the "windy city" would not bet on a ten per cent. conviction basis if that number of culprits were caught.

THEY WHO WALK

MORE AND BETTER ROADS IS A cry that is going up all over the country. We hear a good deal of it in this province and good roads are a good investment. But a point now is being raised in various quarters which ought to be considered by governments placing contracts for new highways or for the improvement of old ones. It has to do with the pedestrians. Where are they to walk in safety if their desire for a change of scene takes them along the rural highway? In some parts they may walk in safety and comparative comfort; but in other places they may have to use a footway perilously near a ditch or overcome one or other form of obstruction if they are to keep off the motor highway.

It is only necessary to keep in mind several highways on this Island to realize the point of this argument. No matter what governments and roadmakers may say, the pedestrian has been much neglected in most road-building schemes. It may not be practical to repair old omissions; but in new construction work those persons who must perforce jog along on Shanks's pony should get a little more consideration than they have been getting. Never forget that pedestrians have as much claim to right-of-way as motorists. True, most people travel on wheels nowadays; but there are a few old-fashioned, some of whom are not able to afford a car, who will walk for some time to come. A little inexpensive path beside the paved highway would serve them and add to the comfort of motorists as well. It also would reduce the risk of accident. Pedestrians at least should not be regarded as minor problems.

OUR SKI-ING INDUSTRY

CANADIAN NEWSPAPERS ARE noting that the ski-ing runs in Switzerland are much in the public notice just now; but they also are reminding us that there are probably more ski clubs in this country than in any other country of the world.

The Ottawa ski club alone, for instance, has a membership of more than 2,200 and is really the largest in the world. Every week-end sees the migration of thousands of enthusiasts from the cities to the surrounding hills, where comfortable camps have been established and where hot meals may be prepared or purchased. So popular has ski-ing in Canada become, incidentally, that the making of the ski itself has grown into an important industry.

The ski-ing runs of Canada of course, are every bit as popular as those of Switzerland, and our merrymakers in all parts of the Dominion where Winter conditions rule continue to laugh at the hard-dying illusions which people in the Old World harbor in connection with the "rigors" and "terrors" of the Canadian Winter.

MOTORS AND RAIL CROSSINGS

MAKING IT COMPULSORY FOR motorists to pull up to a stand-still at railway crossings is a sound provision in the bill which the Minister of Public Works has introduced in the Legislature. It has for long been advocated.

These are the days of closed cars and it is not always easy for their occupants to hear the warning of the approach of a locomotive. The sound of its siren often is not enough to attract attention above the noise of the automobile's engine.

Operating department officials of the Canadian National Railways point out that constant experiments have been made to attempt to give to drivers on the highways the maximum of warning of approaching engines. The whistle of the locomotive has been moved from time to time, in one experiment being placed in front of the smokestack to see if the sound of the whistle would carry more audibly. Even this was not successful.

The bill before the Legislature should have the support of all the members. Its object is obviously in the best interests of the motoring public.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Dean Inge of London says that in a million more years man may be a really noble creature. Flatterer!

In the fate of the Technical School bylaw may be found one reason why so many young people leave Victoria. The state of mind reflected by the result of the vote is out of place in a progressive community. Youth demands progress instead of retrogression; it hears no music in the rattling of the dry-bones of reaction.

Less than a third of those who were entitled to vote on the Technical School by-law went to the polls yesterday. As a symptom this was even more ominous than the defeat of the measure—and that is saying a lot.

The Attorney-General thinks newspapers have made "asinine exhibitions" of themselves in their comments on the dismissal of Judge MacGill. Whether Mr. Pooley is qualified to give expert opinion on equine performances of this sort or not, he is the liveliest high-stepper into trouble in the Legislature. He certainly is making an unholy exhibition of the Government.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

EVER RADIANT BEAM

The Edmonton Journal

Western air mail planes may soon go on a night schedule guided by radio beams between the cities, according to a post office official. Radio beams may not inspire a poet, but they are never guilty of quitting the job in cloudy or foggy weather, like their cousins the sunbeams and starbeams and moonbeams.

BASIC INDUSTRIES

The Boston Transcript

Prosperous industry underlies the national welfare equally with agriculture. If agriculture is "basic," so is manufacture, for the farmer is wasting his labor if he cannot sell most of his product at home. It is as much for his interest to develop foreign trade as for any other man's. If a business of nearly $10,000,000,000 is not to be conserved in the forthcoming tariff revision, the reasoning of the tariff-makers will be narrower than we expect it to be.

"WHY IS THE BACON SO TOUGH?"

The Montreal Journal

"Why is the bacon so tough?" asked a customer in the Savoy Hotel in London. He thought he was addressing the waiter, but the man to whom he put the question was the conductor of the institution's jazz band. The musician replied: "I'll see directly, sir!" He went back to his companions, the drummer, the saxophonist and the others, and the whole gang searched through their repertoire for a piece with the title "Why Is the Bacon So Tough?" They didn't find it, of course, for the simple reason that it didn't exist then. But it exists now, all right. Somehow the incident was bruited about and every jazz composer in London's Tin Pan Alley got busy at once getting up a piece on the bacon theme. Seven different kinds of versions of "Why Is the Bacon So Tough?" are to be had in London music shops and some of the tunes are taking the country by storm like "Yes, We Have No Bananas" once did. But every one of the jazz pieces leaves the fundamental question up in the air: "Why, after all, is the bacon so tough?"

BITTEN BY HIS OWN PUP

The New York Herald-Tribune

Mr. Whalen's display of righteous indignation that a chauffeur of his should presume to break a traffic law and argue with a policeman about it has been somewhat compromised by his punishment of the policeman as well as of the chauffeur. Patrolman Curry, the commissioner admits, had a right to order Joachin Torres, the chauffeur, to move on, "but he did not have the right to use strong-arm methods."

Heigho! Et tu, Grover! Or whatever other classical form the sigh can take. For this compels us to point out once again that it makes a lot of difference in an imperfect world whose ox is gored. Only a few short weeks ago Mr. Whalen was haranguing his men daily on their duty to let the lawbreakers feel their nightsticks; he was advertising the formation of strong-arm squads to strike terror to the underworld and confessing that he had reinstituted that least defensible form of violence known as the "third degree." No police commissioner in our time has so recklessly encouraged his force to behave exactly as he accuses Patrolman Curry of behaving toward a member of his household.

BOARD SHOULD RESIGN

To the Editor:—Now that we have for the third time, with no uncertain voice, turned down the by-law unanimously sponsored by our Board of School Trustees for the establishment of a Technical School in Victoria, we must look for their immediate resignation from office. The vote shows unmistakably a want of confidence on the part of the ratepayers in their elected board. Before they resign they had better let it be known throughout British Columbia and the Prairie Provinces that Victoria is not desirous of increasing her population, at least by welcoming families with members of high school age.

We have it over the signatures of the School Trustees that the present High School building is overcrowded, that hallways have had to be parfitioned off to accommodate classes, that the basement has had to be treated in the same manner. This has all been broadcast in our daily press and to the four winds of Heaven by means of the radio and by our School Trustees themselves, and now we have had it broadcast by the same means that the ratepayers will not remedy these conditions. By our votes we have shown the School Trustees that they lack our confidence. Let them resign. The City Council had better also take note and withdraw that $25,000 recently granted for publicity purposes; we have had publicity enough for one year, if not for a few years to come.

A. HALKETT.

Across the Bay

The day appears sweet and innocent but is discovered to contain dynamite and little else—Mr. Mackenzie opens alarming possibilities—Colonel Peck tells of ghastly things in the wilds of Salt Spring Island—and Mr. Pooley talks against time.

Thursday was one of those sweet, innocent-looking days that turn out to be loaded with dynamite. It started as alarmingly as a pink tea and ended with most of the House on the ragged edge and the rest of House beyond it. And sandwiched in between these two extremes was a perfectly delightful treat from old Colonel Cy Peck, V.C., who gave the House an intimate picture of politics as it is played on the Gulf Islands, and of the eight men who were fired off the Government rockcrusher and other gruesome things that made our blood run cold.

The day had been designed to be a short and peaceful one, and it actually started that way. Mr. Pearson, of Nanaimo, who is one of the most promising of the new members, began by delivering a thoughtful and earnest speech, which contained among other things a rather fine plea for consideration of the poor of the Province.

After that came Mr. Rod Mackenzie, of Cariboo, and the voice of the Cariboo spoke through him when he demanded that something be done about the P.G.E. The Cariboo is always demanding that something be done about the P.G.E., and, according to Mr. Mackenzie, it has faint hope that anything will be done as a result of the P.G.E. survey arranged by Premier Tolmie.

What really intrigued the House, which is not likely to get intrigued with the P.G.E., was Mr. Mackenzie's suggestion that members be paid according to the amount of time they occupy in talk. This was an alarming proposal, for, under such an arrangement, we would always be in session from one year's end to another. If a converse arrangement were adopted, under which members were paid more when they talked less, however, the session would be over in a few minutes and some of the old-timers like Jim Schofield and Jack Buckham would be rich by now.

Mr. Mackenzie elaborated his proposal by urging a sliding scale of pay, and Mr. Uuhill eagerly embraced the idea, provided the scale slid upward. The House was not so enthusiastic about Mr. Mackenzie's subsequent demand that the House be cut in half. Mr. Manson wanted to know which half should be cut off, and Mr. Mackenzie replied that he would be glad to be left at home if Mr. Manson would remain in the great open spaces of Omineca.

It is always a great sight when Col. Peck makes his annual raid on the enemy. As usual, he marched along with thundering tread, roaring his challenges to the world in general, snorting his ponderous witticisms and withal as friendly as could be.

First he turned his attention to the Opposition. He called Mr. Manson a young Napoleon, upon whose lofty brow was the troubled look of a man yearning to lead the Opposition. He also called him a restive political jack-in-the-box, who found it irksome to keep his seat for many minutes at a time. Colonel Peck had heard that Dr. Sutherland would shortly be translated to an important Federal post, while in Mr. Ian Mackenzie he found a fiery Scot who was burning to draw his claymour and lead the whole Liberal Party.

After that, Colonel Peck turned his attention to a former Government, whose name he would not mention, and gave the House what he called a few "rough reminders of yesterday." Before doing so, however, he gave it a classical discourse on political patronage, swept aside sickly hypocrisy, and boldly declared that politicians would appoint to jobs men who were their friends. They would not search for appointees in the ranks of their enemies, he declared, but this was not news to the House.

By this time Colonel Peck was thoroughly warmed up to the job of telling all about the Government whose name he would not mention. This Government, he roared, and waved his arms, had never purchased a pound of nails without considering the political effect of the purchase. Why, Mr. Speaker, in his own constituency, in twelve years, a Liberal firm had received $22,259 in Government business and a Conservative firm only $1,930. Even that revelation did not knock this hardened House unconscious.

Only a direct quotation can do justice to Colonel Peck's classic statement of his own political philosophy. Pounding his desk with a mighty fist, he cried: "I said in my campaign that any Government employee who had

Preparing for Baby

DURING the weeks before baby arrives there is one service of love even more important than the tiny garments so carefully chosen . . make sure that you will be able to feed baby yourself.

So much depends upon this. Artificial feeding can never take its place. Doctors have proved conclusively that breast-fed babies have much better chances of avoiding nutritional diseases like rickets . . of growing up strong and sturdy.

Ovaltine is no haphazard mixture of its several ingredients, but is manufactured by an exclusive scientific process. This retains, unimpaired, all the essential elements of its valuable ingredients—ripe barley malt, fresh eggs and creamy milk from England's richest pastures. One cupful of Ovaltine contains more nourishment than 3 eggs or 12 cupfuls of beef tea. Ovaltine has enabled thousands of mothers all over the world to breast-feed their babies. Your doctor will confirm this.

Delicious and easily digested, Ovaltine will maintain your strength, as nothing else can, during confinement . . and afterwards will ensure you a quick return to normal health.

Made in England. Sold at 50c, 75c, $1.25 and special $4.50 family size. The larger tins are more economical to purchase.

Pooley Scores Woman Judge On Methods

Explains to Legislature Why Mrs. MacGill Was Discharged

Defends Appointment of Miss Paterson and Says It Was Non-political

When Attorney-General Pooley informed the Legislature Thursday that Mrs. Helen MacGill had been dismissed as Juvenile Court Judge of Vancouver because she had refused to carry out the law, and had declined to commit delinquent girls to the Industrial School, he started an argument which will take some time to finish.

Mr. Pooley's motion regretting that the newspapers had published statements about the dismissal without securing an explanation from official sources, opened a lively debate which lapsed into moments of some bitterness. In the end, A. M. Manson, Liberal of Omineca, after speaking for some time, and branding the appointment of Judge Edith Paterson as a reward for political purposes, adjourned the debate so that he could resume his speech later.

Mr. Pooley declared at the outset that it was "unsporting" of the newspapers to attack him for dismissing Mrs. MacGill without seeking an explanation from him. He admitted that newspapermen had sought an explanation from his department, but none had been made as he himself was at home ill. He felt that before any misleading statements on the matter were made, he should have been questioned.

GIVES EXPLANATION

"Regarding Mrs. Helen MacGill, former judge of the Delinquent Court of the City of Vancouver," said Mr. Pooley, "this lady was appointed by Order-in-Council in 1917, for the territory comprised within the limits of the City of Vancouver. Subsequently her jurisdiction, and that of Magistrate Shaw, was extended to the district of Richmond, those being electoral districts and not strictly municipal areas. Mrs. MacGill, on many occasions during her administration, was a source of not merely annoyance but deterence to the officers carrying out the provisions of the Juvenile Delinquents Act. She arrogated the position of being the sole and final authority as to what was correct or what should be done under the law which she was appointed to administer.

"One of her outstanding faults may be the cause of incalculable wrong, and perhaps misery, in certain sections of the public. She declined to commit delinquent girls to the Home because it might happen that such girls or any of them would so conduct themselves as to make it necessary in the interests of other girls in the Home, to remove such girls from the Home to the jail in Oakalla. This might often be necessary not only in the welfare of the girl herself, but in that of the other inmates. For example, a girl committed to the Home might prove incorrigible, unmanageable, insubordinate or even mutinous. Her continued presence in the Home would obviously be dangerous to say the least. It would be necessary, therefore, both for the welfare of the other inmates and the offending girl, to remove her to the stricter atmosphere of the jail, where she would be under more discipline, her chance of escaping being minimized; the advantage of instruction both religious and social being greater, and, on her improvement, if such, she should be returned to the Home for the balance of her sentence.

GAVE SUSPENDED SENTENCES

"Mrs. MacGill, on this principle, followed a policy of declining to commit girls to the home, remanding cases coming before her, setting the girls at large, also allowing them out on suspended sentence, setting those girls also at large who should in the interests and safety of the society in which they live, have been kept or put in a place of detention. It is noticed that Mrs. MacGill, in the years 1922-1928 committed to the Home in all sixty-eight girls. In 1927 she committed nine; in 1928 the records show she committed only one. The number of boys committed in the same period was 135, and they ranged from eleven to thirty-one in the different years mentioned. It is quite well known that the number of girl delinquents brought before the courts in those years equals, if not exceeds, the number of boys.

"There is evidence on the files of the departments concerned that Mrs. MacGill took arbitrarily into her own hands the administration of the Act, ignoring where it imposed duties on her, and placing her own construction on it, to enforce what she considered was right according to her own ideas.

"It is known by the officers that repeatedly girls were brought back to her Court on charge after charge, and she refused to commit them. What the effect on society was of turning these young women loose in this way no one can tell.

FOR RECLAIMING GIRLS

"When the present Government took office, it was quite apparent the condition of disorganization into which this woman had turned this branch of reclamation work amongst young girls. The Detention Home was established for the purpose of reclaiming girls, instead of putting a jail brand on them, for offences which might, in many cases, have been committed through the exuberance of youth, or the absence of proper home and religious influences. That Detention Home has been conducted on a basis of cleanliness and religion tending to the betterment of the unfortunate young people sent there, and with the ideas that, after a reasonable time of good influence, regular habits and personal cleanliness, they would make a turn for the better.

"As before remarked, one or two or more might now and again be committed to that Home who were of a character not fitted for the treatment set down for inmates in the institution. Those girls would need a firmer hand.

"This condition of affairs being found to exist, and it being quite apparent that Mrs. MacGill had not only, by her conduct, shown herself to be not amenable to reason, but a danger to the class she was appointed to assist in helping and reclaiming, the Government considered the time when Vancouver amalgamated with the other municipalities, and therefore the jurisdiction of the judges of the Juvenile Court would be changed, if not superseded, an opportune time to make a change in the interests of the administration of justice.

DEFENDS NEW APPOINTMENT

"As to Miss Paterson's appointment, she did not canvass or apply to me for it, nor did anyone do so on her account. On the contrary at my instigation, she was approached to ascertain if she would accept the position. I cannot imagine any ground of political influence or political favoritism can be established on that point. On the other hand, when Greater Vancouver came into existence, I reappointed the magistrates en bloc who had been acting for the more limited area previously, and they were all Liberals. There cannot be very much suspicion of political wire-pulling in that.

"As to Mrs. MacGill's removal I may say that when I was ill in bed my department was approached for information as to the reasons for her removal, and the answer given was that I was indisposed and that all necessary information would be given as soon as I had recovered. Then a certain section of the press, without getting the facts and with no facts indeed to base them, launched on me a bitter political attack at a time when I was confined to my bed by illness. That is not playing the game. Had the inquirers, as they were told, waited to obtain full information from me, the files are in the department and the facts and circumstances would have been disclosed to them, and not merely an injustice upon me avoided, but newspapers which consider themselves public guardians and moulders of public opinion, would have avoided making an asinine exhibition of themselves."

He charged that Mrs. MacGill had taken exception to the superintendent of the Girls' Home, and had ended by refusing to send delinquent girls to that institution. In 1928 she had sent only one girl to the institution, refusing to "carry out the law." In the last year the same incorrigible girls had appeared before her time and time again, and had been allowed out on suspended sentence with a mere lecture. Many girls who should have been placed in the institution were at liberty as a result of "the antics of this woman," he said.

"As long as I have been Attorney-General no one can say that there has been tampering with the administration of justice from a political point of view," he said. "If you want anything to back that statement up remember that out of the four magistrates of Greater Vancouver whom he had reappointed, three were well-known Liberals."

Mr. Manson said Mrs. MacGill's "sudden dismissal" had followed many similar occurrences, and he understood that 200 more civil servants would be dismissed shortly after the House prorogued.

When the Government objected to Mr. Manson going into these matters, he replied that the Speaker had allowed Mr. Pooley to cover many subjects not included in his resolution.

"There must be no reflection on the Speaker," rapped Mr. Speaker Jones.

"I don't propose to reflect on the Speaker," Mr. Manson retorted.

"Your remarks indicated that you did," Mr. Speaker replied. "I permitted it once or twice before, but I don't propose to permit it again."

This brought sustained applause from the Conservative benches.

Mr. Manson replied that in the past he had been extended the courtesy of being allowed to finish his remarks before conclusions about them were drawn. He did not know whether this courtesy would be continued or not. He thought he should be allowed to touch on the matter mentioned by Mr. Pooley, and he was allowed to proceed.

While he was prepared to credit Mr. Pooley with a desire to administer justice according to the best British traditions, Mr. Manson said he objected to the inference that justice had been tainted under the former Liberal Government. He presumed, he said, that when Mr. Pooley had reflected on the enforcement of justice years ago he had been reflecting on a former Conservative leader. When Hon. W. A. McKenzie questioned him, he added that he was surprised the Minister of Mines had revived a matter which involved a leader "to whom he was a traitor."

Mrs. MacGill, Mr. Manson pursued, was well trained for her position as juvenile court judge, both by her education and by her experience as a wife and mother. There might have been friction between her and other officials while he was Attorney-General, he said, but it had never been brought to his attention. If Mr. Pooley had called Mrs. MacGill and conferred with her there would have been no difficulty in keeping her in office, he thought.

As for the appointment of Miss Paterson, it was obviously a case of political reward, he said. "Speaking as a father," he questioned the wisdom of appointing an unmarried woman who could know nothing of bringing up a family, of the oddities of children, or of the training that they required.

As for the action of the press, Mr. Manson said the press would play fair with Mr. Pooley if, to use Mr. Pooley's own words, he would "put his cards on the table and play cricket according to the Marquis of Queensbury rules."

Other members indicated they would speak on the matter as Mr. Manson adjourned the debate.

Changes In Highway Act

Included in Bill Introduced to Legislature Yesterday

Call For Ferry Landings and Approaches to Be Included

Amendment to the Highway Act aimed to protect bridges from heavy loads, to include ferry landing and approaches in the Act, and to provide for regulations to make all other motor vehicles besides auto stages stop at railway crossings where a stop sign is posted are included in a bill introduced to the Legislature yesterday by Hon. N. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works.

The explanation of the amendments as given by the minister reads as follows:

Section 2. This provides for the inclusion of ferry landings and approaches in the interpretation of a highway. Previously some doubt existed as to whether a ferry landing or approach thereto was within the meaning of the Act. In the amended interpretation the words "wagon roads" previously included, have been left out as being out of date and unnecessary.

Section 3. Under Section 13 of the Highway Act, Chapter 103, reference is only made to the construction of pipes, ditches or flumes on our highways to the satisfaction of the minister. As such structures in time require to be renewed or repaired, this additional section gives the minister full authority to order the repair or renewal as the case may be, of any pipes or other structures occupying our highways under formal permit.

Failing compliance with the minister's order within a reasonable time the minister will have the necessary power to have the work done by department officials and be able to recover the cost of such repair or renewal, etc. This clause also will materially assist the department to enforce the removal of pole lines or other structures on our highways where they interfere with the widening or improvement of same.

Section 4. Regulation No. 12 of special regulations approved in June, 1927, restrict the stopping of only motor stages at railway crossings where there is a stop sign. Inclusion of this section in the Highway Act will permit the making of regulations prescribing for all motor vehicles to come to a full stop before proceeding to cross the railway. Saskatchewan appears to be the only province in Canada which has similar legislation, but of course, until special regulations were enacted, same cannot be enforced in this Province.

Section 5. Under present conditions, if the department wishes to post a notice on any bridge restricting either the load or the speed thereon it is imperative to have an order of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor in council. As this involves time, and in many instances it is necessary to act promptly to protect particularly dangerous bridges, the proposed amendment will enable the regulations to be made by the minister or any person authorized by the minister in writing to exercise such powers.

Section 6. Grants the minister similar powers but more particularly in connection with the bridges carrying either railway traffic or combined railway and highway taffic.

Section 7. As the penalty previously imposed, namely, minimum $100 and maximum $500, appears to be unduly severe, the amendment limits the penality to a fine not exceeding $250.

Members of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition selected Waterman's as a matter of course

In the selection of every item of equipment for the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, absolute dependability was the all-important factor. Simply as a matter of course, therefore, Waterman's fountain pens were supplied to every member.

It was to be expected, too, that Waterman's Blue Black would be the official ink. And, to meet the rigid exactions of the Antarctic continent, itself, we supplied a non-freezing ink made by a special formula.

Because Waterman's No. 7 is made in seven different styles of pen point, each identified by a distinct color inlay band on the cap, it is the "Ideal" pen for fitting perfectly, the many different types of writing. Price $7.00.

SIR J. HEWETT REACHES CITY

St. John Ambulance Official Arrives After Australian Tour

After an official tour of jurisdictions in Australia and New Zealand, Sir John Hewett, G.C.S.I., representing the Grand Priory of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, arrived here last night aboard the R.M.S. Niagara. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. St. John Atkinson, a dame of the order of St. John.

Sir John surveyed conditions in ambulance work in the southern Dominions while Mrs. Atkinson examined the nursing sisterhoods of the Commonwealth.

Both commented upon the remarkable advance of St. John Ambulance work "down under." Dormant causes in Tasmania and the goldfields of Western Australia were revived as a result of their visit, Mrs. Atkinson said.

Sir John and his daughter left here for Santa Barbara, Cal., whence they will leave for England.

Clever Poster Is Advertising Play Of College Club

"Green Stockings," the title of the comedy to be presented by the "Players' Club" of Victoria College on the evenings of March 8 and 9, has proved to be a stimulus to a number of the College students possessing artistic ability. Several fine posters have been made, among them an extremely clever one by Miss Dorothy Bishop.

Miss Bishop's poster may be seen in the window of Fletcher's Music Store. The drawing is particularly good, the color scheme very effective and the lettering of the title, "Green Stockings," done in strokes suggestive—though not too suggestive—of stockings, is clever and original.

Tickets for the play may be secured from any of the College students and may be reserved by telephoning the College. Already a large number of tickets have been disposed of and the members of the executive of the "Players' Club" feel confident that the auditorium of Victoria High School will be filled on both evenings of the performance.

I.O.D.E. Head Reviews Work Facing Order

Mrs. J. H. Gillespie Speaks of League Problems at Municipal Chapter

Reports of Order's Educational Work and War Memorial Given To-day

"Do we thoroughly understand our own home conditions; how these affect our sister dominions, and have we a grasp of our relations with; let us say, even those powers signatory with ourselves in the League of Nations? When the report of such conferences become public do we individually strive to grasp the summing-up of even those deliberations concerned with the world conditions of community life we as Daughters of the Empire have pledged ourselves to support?"

This challenge to the women to study more closely the internal and international affairs of Canada was made by Mrs. J. Hebden Gillespie, regent of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., in her inspiring address at the seventeenth annual meeting of that body to-day. The gathering was held in the Sons of England Hall.

PLEA FOR BI-LINGUALISM

Mrs. Gillespie continued: "Through our representative at the League of Nations we hear that a knowledge of languages will be of prime importance in the near future, yet so far within our order we are not even encouraging a universal knowledge of our sister language, French. Our birthright as Canadians gives us the right to two languages. This knowledge is at a premium in the Federal House, yet in our schools we do not develop the two languages side by side.

"Our order counts chapters representing both, and we who are in the larger proportion and of British descent might gracefully remember our debt to the French-Canada for much of the early development of our land. Further we owe it in no small respect to the stability of French-Canada that our country was not swept into the tide that produced the American revolution which might so easily have lost this infant dominion to the Union Jack," she continued.

Mrs. Gillespie also urged the women to remember their obligations to such problems as child welfare, care of the blind, Junior Red Cross and educational matters, all of which the I.O.D.E. had pledged itself to support.

CADET CORPS

After speaking of the order's war memorial scheme, she noted "one could wish more pressure might be brought to bear in the hope of encouraging officers' training corps in our universities, for only through these endeavors, coupled with the public opinion demanding them, can Canada hope to have the firmly-established militia which should be her national ambition. The same influence is needed on behalf of the Navy League which fosters our mercantile marine, and strive to create a public opinion which will at last bring about adequate naval protection."

Empire shopping, the "dols and its attendant evils in England," immigration problems, all were briefly reviewed by the regent in her address. The passing of Mrs. Henry Croft and of Hon. W. C. Nichol were referred to with regret, and tributes paid to their work for the order.

NATIONAL MEETING

Mrs. Gillespie spoke of the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the National Chapter to be held in Victoria this Spring, when members of the order from all parts of Canada will be present.

In her report as educational secretary, Miss A. B. Cooke reviewed the various undertakings of the primary chapters, telling of the presentations of pictures, prizes and bursaries to the local schools. Gonzales, Lady Douglas, Esquimalt and Dr. O. M. Jones Chapters had participated in this work for their "adopted" schools, while Gonzales, Lady Douglas, Margaret Rocke Robertson and Robert Burns McMicking Chapter had each presented libraries to their schools, in pursuance of the request made by Miss Gordon, National educational secretary, that each chapter present at least one library this year.

FOR SOLDIERS' CHILDREN

Of secondary education, Miss Cooke's report continues:

"This splendid work for the soldiers' children has received this year a more generous support than ever before. Ten chapters have contributed a total sum of $579. In this again the Lady Douglas Chapter leads with a contribution of $150. Nine students have received bursaries, Letice Cartwright and Ruth Levirs completed their matriculation, the former being awarded the 1928 I.O.D.E. Provincial University bursary of $1,200 under the war memorial fund. At present five students are receiving bursaries. A student who needed assistance during Normal School training, and who did not come under our secondary educational fund, has been generously assisted by Esquimalt Chapter with a loan of $100.

"Last Summer in response to a special appeal, the chapters contributed $110, and Municipal Chapter advanced $40 towards a loan of $150 to enable a student to attend the U.B.C. Summer school as commencement of her work on her first class certificate," noted Miss Cooke.

Receipts to the fund from February 16, 1928, to February 15, 1929, were: Camosun Chapter, $100; Gonzales Chapter, $50; Lady Douglas Chapter, $150; Esquimalt Chapter, $50; Navy League Chapter, $50; Florence Nightingale Chapter, $90; V. Harvey and B.

Girl Bound Over For Abduction of Muriel Dunsmuir

London, March 1.—The grim, ancient Old Bailey yesterday witnessed a happy ending to the escapade of Rose O'Grady, domestic servant who went from London to Ireland with the eleven-year-old granddaughter of James Dunsmuir, former Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, after the girls had said they were "going on the stage." They were sent back by police after a wide search.

Miss O'Grady was charged yesterday with abducting the Dunsmuir girl. An orphan, aged eighteen, Rose has the mentality of a child of ten years. Her timidity was in strong contrast to the complete composure of Muriel Dunsmuir, who said she asked Rose to take her to Ireland because she wanted adventure.

The recorder was of the opinion the boot was on the other foot and the older girl had been abducted rather by the assured Muriel. Rose, however, was bound over for two years in care of a Catholic officer who will find her a home.

It was also suggested that cretonne be bought for new covers for the chesterfield and chairs in the sunroom, and that six strong chairs be bought for use in the nurses' reception room. Mrs. Rhodes, the president, presided at the meeting.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank Duff-Stuart, and the best man was Ronald Kenyon. Those at the ceremony included Sydney Beveridge, brother of the bride; Frank Duff-Stuart, M. A. Van Roggen and Hugo Ray.

POOLEY SLAPS WOMEN'S FACE BY DISMISSAL

So highly do the presswomen value the services of Mrs. MacGill, that they have also forwarded the following resolution to Mayor W. H. Malkin of Vancouver:

"The Vancouver branch of the C.W.P.C. at its meeting Wednesday, February 27, expressed its regret that Vancouver was to lose the services of Judge Helen Gregory MacGill, and, in the interest of women and children in Vancouver, endorsed the various proposals made in the Vancouver newspapers, that the city authorities avail themselves of her experience and ability, by continuing to utilize her services along similar lines to those of her recent post."

The statement made in the House yesterday afternoon by Attorney-General Pooley concerning the reasons for Mrs. MacGill's dismissal has excited considerable comment among women who have been familiar with the excellent work she has been doing for the last eleven years in the cause of juvenile delinquency.

Exception was taken this morning by a member of the Victoria Local Council of Women to Mr. Pooley's statement that Mrs. MacGill "followed a policy of declining to commit girls to the home, remanding cases before her, setting the girls at large, also allowing them out on suspended sentence, setting those girls also at large, who should, in the interests and safety of the society in which they live, have been kept or put in a place of detention," a stand which Mr. Pooley declared to be "one of her outstanding faults and may be the cause of incalculable wrong and perhaps misery in certain sections of the public."

To The Times this Victoria woman pointed out that "the whole secret of Mrs. MacGill's success in her many years of work in the Juvenile Court lay in her application of the indeterminate sentence and parole system. A mother of daughters herself, and a woman of wide experience and broad understanding, Mrs. MacGill has always taken the humanitarian stand that young girls who are brought before the Juvenile Court for delinquency are frequently more sinned against than sinning, or their delinquency may be traced to some underlying cause not apparent on the surface.

SOME DIFFERENCE

"Mr. Pooley by his statement also shows that he apparently does not understand the difference between the detention home and the industrial school. The home is the institution in which children and young offenders are placed while awaiting disposition of their case; the industrial school is the institution to which girl offenders are sent from all over the Province. That industrial school has accommodation only for forty-eight girls. Last year Mrs. MacGill had fifty-eight girls brought before her, charged in such a way that they could have been sent, under the act to the industrial school. But the school was not large enough to accommodate them, let alone all the other delinquents from the balance of the Province.

"The act provides for probation of young offenders, and to the end Vancouver has appointed four highly-paid probation officers, and in addition there are five highly-trained social service workers, including Col. Louise Payne of the Salvation Army, to do the following up work in connection with the court. Would Vancouver have gone to that expense if it did not approve of this work?"

GIVEN SECOND CHANCE

"Rather than commit them to a home and thus attach to them a stigma, which is inevitable, Mrs. MacGill goes carefully into the case, and if in her mature judgment she thinks the girl should have a second chance, the delinquent is given an indeterminate sentence and placed upon parole, with the understanding that if she fails to reform she will be committed to the home. But it is this humanitarian attitude to which Mr. Pooley apparently objects, although it is just this branch of her work which the women of British Columbia, as exemplified by the Provincial Council of Women's resolution commend."

WORLD ACCEPTS HER VIEWS

"That the world at large takes a broader view of Mrs. MacGill's services to British Columbia than does the Government is evidenced by the popularity of her publications. Her writings on such social questions as Juvenile Courts, minimum wage legislation and its ramifications, and other matters pertaining to social welfare are recognized internationally as text books, and are used at Geneva. The present situation recalls to mind the old Biblical story of the "prophet with honor save in his own country," she concluded.

Value Is Seen In Reciprocal Empire Trade

Head of British Mission to Australia Reaches City En Route Home

Urges Reciprocity as Means to Making Empire Economic Unit

Closer reciprocity between Canada and Australia as well as all other parts of the Empire was advocated by Sir Arthur Duckham, chairman of the British Economic Mission to Australia, in an interview here last night.

Sir Arthur arrived abroad the liner Niagara from Australia, en route to his home in England after nine months' absence in connection with the mission.

"We finished our mission with a strong feeling that closer reciprocity between all parts of the Empire was a necessity," Sir Arthur remarked. "I am quite certain that the trade advantages one part of the Empire can give to another will disclose a way in which the Empire can be brought more nearly to an economic union."

Questioned regarding the Canadian-Australian trade treaty, Sir Arthur said he had not closely studied this matter but felt there should be general reciprocal trade arrangements all round in the Empire.

CLEAR TIES

"I think the dominions and colonies will be brought much closer together at the next Empire Economic Conference," he added.

Discussing the work of the economic mission in Australia, Sir Arthur pointed out that 25,000 miles had been covered by the members during the four months of their work.

Generally, the summarization of their findings was that great opportunities exist in Australia and that labor conditions there were to be deplored.

TRADE UNIONS

"But the industrial conference in progress there, with which we had some connection, will be a means of solving their labor difficulties," he said. "Premier Bruce told me that probably the best work we did was our intercourse with the trade unionists and general labor organizations. I think we have started bringing them together."

Before leaving Australia, Sir Arthur was presented with an illuminated manuscript in appreciation of the work done by the mission. The signatures on this manuscript include those of practically all labor organizations in Melbourne such as the Employees' Federation, the Henry George League, the Town and Country Union, the Taxpayers' Association, the Housewives' Association, the Economics Society of Australia and the Australia Council of Trade Unions.

MATTERS TAKEN UP

The report of the mission was well received by the Government, Sir Arthur pointed out, and several items in it had already been discussed, including the recommendations in regard to railways, tariff and immigration.

In this connection, Sir Arthur was of the opinion that some sections of the report were applicable to Canada. He drew attention to a paragraph in the introduction to the report, which, he said, applied to a considerable degree in this country.

This paragraph reads as follows:

"Our terms of reference, it will be observed, lay emphasis on the problems of the promotion of trade and commerce between Great Britain and Australia and of the increase of settlement in Australia. It early became clear to us that these problems should be approached from the point of view of what is best for Australia herself in the belief that the increase of Australia's prosperity and productivity is an essential condition of increased trade with Great Britain. Given the maximum possible prosperity and wealth production in Australia, the ties between Australia and Great Britain are sufficiently close and the sentiments of common loyalty which bind the one with the other are sufficiently strong to secure that the maximum commercial intercourse will follow. Given the maximum possible power of absorbing population in Australia her determination to remain the most British community in the world is sufficiently strong to secure that it will be from Great Britain that the flow of immigration will come. But if the desired conditions of Australian prosperity and power to absorb population are not present, artificial means of promoting trade with and migration from Great Britain must fail."

RECIPROCAL TRADE

The report also says:

"We recognize that reciprocal trade in the widest sense is a necessity for the sound economic development of each nation and as such should be fostered by any practical means and at any justifiable cost."

It is pointed out that reciprocal trade preference between Australia and Great Britain is hindered at the outset by Great Britain's policy of free imports and by Australia's policy of tariffs imposed to develop and protect her own industries; and, further that Great Britain cannot give preferential treatment to Australia without extending similar treatment to the other parts of the Empire.

Direct assistance to the marketing of Australia's produce and an inquiry into the tariffs of both countries is recommended by the mission.

APPLY TO CANADA

"These matters apply as well to Canada and the home country as they dod to Australia and the home country," Sir Arthur commented.

Sir Arthur is the last member of the economic mission to return home, having been absent from England nine months. He is accompanied by Lady Duckham and their three children.

D. O. Malcolm, director of the British South Africa Company, another member of the mission, reached Victoria last month aboard the R.M.S. Aorangi. Sir Hugo Hirst and Sir Ernest Clark returned by way of the Panama Canal.

Sir Arthur addressed the Vancouver Canadian Club at luncheon to-day, speaking on reciprocity.

Salary Boosts Cause Move Up

Oak Bay Council Hears Letter From School Board Explaining Estimates Increase

Replying to a letter from the Oak Bay Council asking for a detailed account of the school estimates submitted at the beginning of the year by the Board of School Trustees, H. F. Hewett, secretary of the board explained in detail the increase in the estimated expenditures for 1929 which are $9,744.10 more than last year, in a letter which was read before members of the council at the regular meeting last night. The report of estimated expenses for 1929 was $91,484.10 as compared to $81,740.10 for the year 1928.

Mr. Hewett's letter laid particular stress upon the added money that was needed for teachers' salaries, contingent funds and insurance. At the beginning of January 1928, the letter said, twelve teachers had reached their maximum under the schedule. Five teachers reached their maximum salaries, with increases dating from September 1, 1928, which involved the inclusion of four-tenths of such increase in the 1928 estimates, but six-tenths in the 1929 estimates. This part of the increase amounted to $498, Mr. Hewett's letter said.

SALARY INCREASES

One teacher engaged by the board to replace H. Horning who had resigned, involved an advance over the 1928 estimates of $276, while two teachers' salaries readjusted on the basis of former service and experience made an increase of $156. One teacher, the secretary's letter informed the council, provided for in the 1928 estimates at $1,000, was placed on full time at schedule, owing to the forced transfer of the commercial classes from the High School to the Willows School, with increased numbers in that branch, and involved an increase over the 1928 estimates of $1,086. One teacher for the physical culture classes had been added to the staff, Mr. Hewett said, and that increased the 1928 estimates $600.

Three teachers will reach their maximum during the coming year, the report continued and that will increase last year's estimates by $280. Three more teachers are due for increase during 1929, although not maximum salaries, and this will involve a further expenditure of $351.

CONTINGENT FUND

An increase of $650 for the contingent fund over the estimates submitted for last year was explained by Mr. Hewett as a provision for anticipated expense of moving into the new High School when it is completed in September of this year. The increased estimate for insurance, amounting to $875 is to provide for the new High School building upon its completion, it was explained in Mr. Hewett's letter.

Sees No Hope In P.G.E. Survey

People Want Extension of Line, Says Member For Cariboo

The people of districts bordering the Pacific Great Eastern Railway want the Government to proceed with the extension of the line and they do not look for any substantial results from the joint survey of the road by the Government, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways, Roderick Mackenzie, Conservative of Cariboo, declared in the Legislature Thursday.

"We don't look for anything particularly to come out of the survey and we look to the Government to start an extension as soon as possible," he declared, adding the fear that the survey might delay construction.

In the event of the C.P.R. or the C.N.R. taking over the P.G.E. he urged that employees of the Government line be protected in their seniority rights. The ability of these men, he said, was shown by the fact that there had been no accidents on the P.G.E. in fifteen years of operation.

Mr. Mackenzie suggested that indemnities for members of the House should be placed on a sliding scale and those who talked most should be paid most, for it was unfair that A. M. Manson, of Omineca, who talked more than most members should be paid no more than he who talked hardly at all, he said. He also advocated cutting the present size of the House in half and said he would be willing to stay at home if Mr. Manson would join him there.

Spirit of Levity At High School

Curriculum of the High School was completely disorganized today.

The crowded classrooms were in a state of ferment and the teaching staff was at a loose end grappling with a psychological complex.

Levity among the students subordinated everything else and the school hours had passed before their equilibrium was restored.

The unsettled state of the school had to do with the celebration of "Loud Sock and Tie Day," which the students studiously observe when March 1 comes round.

Flagrant and riotous creations that smashed all previous records in size and color were in evidence as the youth of the city trooped into the classrooms this morning.

The girls outdistanced the boys in bedecking themselves with loudly clashing bows and hose.

Some of the boys wore such enormous types of neckwear that they were forced to enter the school doors sideways.

Rev. Dr. Wilson Granted Leave

First United Church Pastor to Spend Five Months in Europe

Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., pastor of the First United Church, was granted leave of absence for four or five months by the session of the church last evening, the decision thus to recognize Dr. Wilson's strenuous labors with a well-earned holiday being a unanimous and hearty one.

TO REPRESENT CHURCH

Dr. Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, has made tentative plans to leave in June for a holiday in Europe, part of the time to be spent in motoring through Europe, and the remainder of the holiday in England and Scotland. The pastor of the First Church has been signally honored by being invited to represent the United Church of Canada at the first Union General Assembly of the United Church of Scotland and the United Free Church, to be held at Edinburgh in October.

The action of the session of the First United Church in granting this extended holiday to Dr. Wilson comes as a sequel to the action of the congregation last May when they presented him with a purse in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination and in recognition of his seven years' of service at the First United Church. The pastor has worked hard during his ministry at First Church, and indeed throughout his ministerial career and the session is taking this opportunity of showing its appreciation by giving him a much-needed holiday.

NEW ASSISTANT PASTOR

Another important step taken by the session last evening was the engagement of an assistant pastor to take the place of Rev. J. G. Bompas, who is returning to missionary work in China. The expected assistant is Mr. Bruce Gray, who is graduating this Spring after a six years' course from Emmanuel College, Toronto.

Mr. Gray has been to the front in the student and general young people's life during his college course. For a period he was religious director for Rev. Dr. R. S. Laidlaw, in Erskine Church, Toronto. For two years he was engaged by the Student Christian Movement in the United States to visit the colleges and universities in the interests of the religious life of the students.

Mr. Gray saw service overseas, was made captain on the field and carries the M.C. for distinguished service. He is expected to arrive about May 1 and will immediately assume his duties.

Reviews Grand Forks Project

Relief Due on Irrigation Burden, Kingston Claims

The Grand Forks irrigation project and problems of fruit growers were discussed at some length by Dr. C. M. Kingston, Conservative, Grand Forks-Greenwood, in the Budget debate yesterday in the Legislature.

Charging that political expediency bulked largely in the scheme started in 1920, he said that eight years after, the scheme built under the direction of Government engineers gave ground for criticism. It was cumbersome and costly to operate and much land that had been under irrigation was waste land. Some of it had already been taken over by the Government, leaving the burden heavier on those who used the system. As it was built as a political expediency, he argued the users of the system were entitled to some relief.

Touching on fruit growing problems, he pointed to heavy freight rates as a handicap to the industry and expressed the need for anti-dumping legislation.

In opening, he pointed with pride to the fact that his constituency registered a vote of 92¾ per cent at the last election. He referred to a previous speaker's advocacy of the appointment of two or three medical inspectors to aid the prevention of tuberculosis and commented that perhaps in the not distant future it would be advisable to establish a department of health.

While he said he could not claim to be the mouthpiece of the Government, he thought there was no ground for fears of the member for Alberni that the Old Age Pension Act might be repealed.

Shelly Denies Criticism of Paternal Laws

Certainly Warned Public Against Legislation, Says Pattullo

Dispute between Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, and other members as to what Mr. Shelly really said about "paternalistic legislation" enlivened the closing moments of Thursday afternoon's session of the Legislature.

Mr. Shelly took objection to a heading in The Victoria Times in which appeared the phrase "Finance Minister's attack on paternal legislation."

"I did not say anything detrimental to paternal legislation," said Mr. Shelly. "Furthermore, I was careful to hand an exact copy of my speech to The Times, so there is no excuse."

The headline in the same paper on L. A. Hanna's speech referred to Mr. Hanna's expressed fear that old age pensions might be repealed.

"The inference in both headlines is absolutely and wilfully false," said Mr. Shelly. "No such inference can be drawn."

L. A. Hanna, Alberni, was on his feet in a flash.

"Does he mean to say that any statement I made was false?" he demanded.

"No, I do not imply that," replied the Minister, "but there was a great deal of political color in it, just as close as possible."

"I heard the Minister's speech," declared T. D. Pattullo, "and he certainly warned the public against legislation already passed and gave a clear cut intimation that nothing further of this nature could be expected."

"I have a copy and he specifically warned against any further commitments of a "paternalistic nature," cut torney-General Pooley attempted to come to Mr. Shelly's rescue.

Will Continue Freight Fight

L. J. Ladner, K.C., to Represent B.C., Tolmie Tells Legislature

British Columbia will continue to prosecute its claims for readjustments of freight rates. This was made abundantly clear yesterday by Premier S. F. Tolmie, who issued a statement setting out the position of the Government, not only in connection with domestic grain rates, but in respect of the general case of the Province as well. The Premier's statement follows:

"On the question of domestic grain rates we have already employed J. J. Ladner, K.C., M.P., to represent the Province in this matter, and also W. A. Boyce, K.C., of Ottawa.

"Mr. Ladner has instructions to cooperate with anybody in the Province interested in this appeal.

"While Mr. Ladner has been instructed in relation to the appeal on domestic grain rates, I want it to be clearly understood that we also intend to prosecute our claim for a reduction of the general freight rates in British Columbia toward the elimination of the mountain deferential.

"The question of freight rates is a business proposition in which the people of this Province are deeply interested, and we propose to proceed along business lines without regard to the political significance of any steps towards our aim.

"The public may rest assured that the Government is giving this matter most earnest consideration."

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. D. O. W. writes:

"My daughter is ten years old. She is so sassy to me and when I ask her to do anything for me she refuses. She reads most of the time she is home from school, as she has no playmates. I take her with me when I go out. Do you think this would account for her nervousness, for she is nervous and irritable. What shall I do when she refuses to help me?"

ANSWER

In some way you have failed to let the little girl feel her part in the home. Few children will take an interest in work, just as work, but if they are made to feel that the home is theirs they will help make it attractive. If the mother shows her desire to cooperate with the child and make life pleasant for her, the child will have a feeling of pleasure in helping her mother.

Children should have playmates. Through play and through championship the child has a natural outlet. If there are plamates coming into the home, the child has an added incentive to help with the work. It is her house and she takes a pride in it and its orderliness, and she is willing and anxious to do her part in keeping it that way. The one and only lasting manner in which a child can be made to assume any responsibility is to make her feel that it is as much to her credit if the house is clean, the dishes washed, the beds made, as it is her mother's and she cannot feel this unless the parents make her understand that the home is as much hers as it is theirs. Of course, just saying so isn't enough. They must have created this feeling by their actions. If the child is allowed to suggest ways in which the furniture might be moved about to make the room more attractive; if she joins with the mother and father in a discussion of new things to be fought for the home; if she helps hem towels and curtains, and in a dozen ways is made to feel a personal interest, she will willingly perform the tasks allotted to her.

The child should not be ordered about at the whim of the mother. Too many mothers cannot see a child idle without thinking up something they might be doing. No wonder the child feels imposed upon. As soon as a child is capable of performing any tasks he should have some duties assigned to him. These grow with the years. The child is entitled to leisure to pursue his own interests unmolested. He will be willing to hurry through his tasks and get them done if he knows that when he is idle the mother won't make use of his spare time.

Suggestions, courteous manners toward the child, and giving a personal sense of responsibility, will avoid refusals and bitterness.

"Eighty-one students in the Dominion, twelve in British Columbia, sons and daughters of men who gave their all, have received bursaries and so been enabled to carry on to completion an educational training for which they had the ability and talents, but which without our aid, that higher education must have ended in a dream and they never could give to their country, their families or themselves what they can now."

Toronto Practically Certain of Making Place In Play-offs

Fast-stepping Maple Leafs Turn Back Montreal Maroons, 4-0, Cutting Latter's Chances of Making Finals to a Minimum; Canadiens and Americans Continue Dispute for Leadership by Playing to Scoreless Draw; Chicago Hawks Rise and Hold New York Rangers to Draw; Boston Bruins Trounce Ottawa to Go Into Tie With New Yorkers.

Toronto, March 1.—Out of the three great battles for places in the National Hockey League only one has come close to a settlement so far. Toronto's sprightly young Maple Leafs, who have tied with the husky Montreal Maroons for third place in the international group, reduced the Maroons' chances of finishing in the play-off position, to a minimum last night, by burying them under a 4-0 score.

The second successive shutout the Leafs have scored over their rivals left the Maroons with the necessity of getting three more points in their remaining four games than the Leafs get in six contests. Winding up their season's series last night, the Leafs have four victories of the six inter-city games.

A DULL CONTEST

The New York Americans and Canadiens continued their dispute for leadership by playing to a scoreless draw in a dull contest. The result leaves the Canadiens three points ahead but they still have another meeting scheduled for March 16 which may be the deciding contest.

The Chicago Black Hawks rose from their cellar position to smite the New York Rangers, champions of the hockey world, out of undisputed possession of first place in the American group. The Hawks played their eighth straight game without scoring, but with Goalie Gardiner playing the leading role, they were able to keep the Rangers from getting a goal.

BRUINS BEAT OTTAWA

Meanwhile the Boston Bruins turned in a 4-0 victory over Ottawa and went into a tie with the Rangers. The Bruins outplayed the Senators all the way. The victory virtually ended Ottawa's hope of getting into the play-offs. They are now six points behind Toronto with only six games to play.

Ottawa, March 1.—Boston's Bruins went into the leadership of the American section of the N.H.L. and the chances of the Ottawa Senators landing a play-off berth were almost completely obliterated when the Bruins downed the Senators 4-0 here last night. The locals bowed to speed and teamplay. They fought gallantly, but the heavy rear guard thwarted the scoring thrusts of the Senators.

THE LINE-UP

Ottawa — Connell, Clancy, Smith, Nighbor, Kilrea, Finnegan, Touhey, Grosvenor, Elliott, Shields and Godin.

Boston—Thompson, Hitchman, Shore, Carson, Galbraith, Oliver, Owen, Weiland, Clapper, Gainor, McKay and Lane.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Boston, Weiland, 8.40.

Second period—No score.

Third period — 2, Boston, Carson, 10.35; 3, Boston, Carson, 20; 4, Boston, Owens, 6.05.

New York, March 1.—The New York Americans and Montreal Canadiens failed to reach a decision on their N.H.L. struggle here last night, and as a result the Canadiens were left situated three points ahead of the Americans on top of the international section of the league. Last night's game went seventy minutes of rather dull hockey to a scoreless tie.

THE LINE-UP

Americans—Worters, Reise, Simpson, Burch, Broadbent, Connor, Himes, McVeigh, Sheppard and White.

Canadiens—Hainsworth, S. Mantha, Burke, Lepine, Gagne, Joliat, Mondou, Morenz, Leduc, Patterson, Gardiner and G. Mantha.

SUMMARY

No scoring.

Detroit, March 1.—New York's champion Rangers were held to a scoreless tie in an N.H.L. game with the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks here last night, largely because of the efforts of Chuck Gardiner, wiry Hawk goalie. While the Rangers held an edge in the play throughout the game, they could not beat the goalie, who stopped difficult shots from all angles.

THE LINE-UP

Rangers—Roach, Abel, Bourgeault, Boucher, Bill Cook, Bun Cook, Murdoch, Thompson, Keeling and Oatman.

Chicago—Gardiner, Wentworth, Taylor, Irvin, Couture, Gottselig, Ripley, March, McKinnon, Arbour and Miller.

SUMMARY

No scoring.

Montreal, March 1.—Toronto Maple Leafs played like a team of world's champions here last night and handed the Maroons a 4-0 pasting. The Leafs' display left no doubt as to their superiority and right to sole possession of third place in the standing of the Canadian section of the N.H.L. The loss practically meant eliminating the Maroons from a chance of finishing in a play-off position.

THE LINE-UP

Toronto—Chabot, Smith, Day, Blair, Cox, Bailey, Duncan, Horner, Horne, Cotton and Pettinger.

Montreal—Benedict, Boucher, Dutton, Phillips, Stewart, Ward, H. Smith, Trottier, Hicks, Northcott and Siebert.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Toronto, Duncan, 7.08; 2, Toronto, Day, 10.29.

Second period—3, Toronto, Horne, 6.40.

Third period—4, Toronto, Cox, 15.18

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 1.—The London Panthers advanced a step further in the race for a place in the play-offs for the Canpro Hockey title when they took a 4-1 decision from the Cataracts here last night.

HE REFEREED

who was the third man in the ring in Wednesday night's heavyweight bout between Jack Sharkey and W. L. "Young" Stribling. He is considered one of the best referees in the game to-day and is famous for his tactics in keeping the fighters from clinching and wrestling during a bout. They say he does more work than the fighters in a bout.

China Basketball Players Will Not Perform Here Again

J. C. "Scotty" Dowds, president of the Vancouver Island Basketball Association, this morning received a wire from C. C. Lim, manager of the touring China basketball team, to the effect that it would be impossible for the Chinese to play a return game here.

The wire dispatched from Milwaukee, stated that the team upon its arrival in Victoria would be incomplete and not strong enough for a game here.

The Chinese will arrive here on March 6, and will sail for the Orient on the Empress of France three days later.

Miami Will Get Other Big Bouts

William F. Carey Signs Contract to Stage Fights in South Every Winter

Stribling Receives $63,549.31 as Share of Purse; Dempsey Gets $25,000

Miami Beach, Fla., March 1.—The fistic cavalcade is moving northward again after its successful splurge in the southern sunshine, with spoils beyond the fondest expectations for all the principals involved.

Of the total gate receipts of $405,940 garnered from Jack Sharkey's conquest of Young Stribling in the pine octagon in Flamingo Park, the Madison Square Garden Corporation had a net profit of about $50,000. The Boston tar carried away a cheque for $100,000. Jack Dempsey, the promoter, was approximately $25,000 richer, and the loser, Stribling had $63,549.31 worth of balm for his minor hurts. It was the Georgian's biggest purse. Even the American Legion Post here netted $9,000 for its part in making the battle a success.

TO GET OTHER BOUTS

Now it seems that the Garden will return each Winter for five years to stage a spectacle in Miami, rival city across Biscayne Bay. Carey signed a contract with the city fathers yesterday.

Yesterday Sharkey without a scratch to show for his close victory, was on his way back to Boston with his party, while Dempsey and Carey jubilantly made their plans for the future, and Stribling, with greatly increased prestige, prepared a campaign to climb the heavyweight ladder all over again.

STRIBLING TO TOUR

While the actual fight picture saw Sharkey one full step further along the road to the heavyweight crown Gene Tunney tossed aside, it also left a prominent place for the southern youth, who never before had clashed with a top notch contender in amassing a string of 103 knockouts. The Striblings, "Pa," "Ma," and "W.L." plan a trip to Europe of another barnstorming tour with a return "shot" at Sharkey the goal of the late Summer.

Rugby Games Should Prove Interesting

Scottish and Bays to Decide Second Half Honors in Senior League To-morrow

College Play Wanderers and University Meet Scottish in Intermediate League

Should the J.B.A.A. succeed in defeating the Canadian Scottish in to-morrow's senior rugby fixture at the Willows, they will again clash with the militiamen for the championship of the city. A victory would give them the championship of the second half and as as result they would again meet the Scottish, winners of the first half, for the league title.

However, if the Scots win or draw the match, they will also take the honors in the second half and automatically become city champions.

With this proposition before them, the Bays are expected to put all they have into the game to-morrow and should certainly display a high standard of rugby when they make their final attempt to capture the second half honors.

The militiamen are also expected to be out in force to defend their laurels and to bring a speedy termination to the league.

MEET VANCOUVER

The team which wins the city title, will meet Vancouver for the provincial championship.

In the intermediate league Victoria College will clash with the Wanderers at Victoria High School, while the University School will battle the Canadian Scottish at Mount Tolmie.

Last week College ran the intermediate Scottish ragged and chalked up a 51-0 score, while the Mount Tolmie boys won a 12-3 decision over the Wanderers.

COLLEGE FAVORITES

The School is expected to score another victory over the Scottish to-morrow, but College will have a fight to defeat the Wanderers. The Oak Bay boys have proved a source of worry to the blue-and-gold fifteen throughout the season and should make them work hard to win.

The College, however, should be in fine condition for the game and several of their players who have been on the sick list, are expected back in the game.

All matches will commence at 3 o'clock.

The following players will represent the senior Canadian Scottish: Kennedy, Oliver, Cabeldu, Horne, Kinsman, Pollard, Holt, R. Wenman, Lamb, Knapton, Macmurchie, Fanning, Bernard, Pollard and G. Wenman.

The Mermaid Marvel—By Jimmy Thompson

The famous Canadian girl speed swimmer, Mary Casson, is going to take up residence in Winnipeg soon, according to rumor. Last year this fair young mermaid was the sensation of the Canadian natatorial world, capturing eight Dominion championships from fifty yards to three miles. She will be just eighteen years of age this Summer and has already made a name for herself in the swimming world at large.

Her prowess in the water is partly due to the training she received from the well-known Johnny Walker, who has developed her in startling fashion. At the last meet in Winnipeg she took four titles. She has attended meets in Ottawa, Montreal, Winnipeg and Toronto.

Many Entries For Dog Show

All Prominent Local Kennels to Show To-morrow Night at Westholme Hotel

Final arrangements for the last parlor show of the season to be staged by the Victoria City Kennel Club, to-morrow night at the Westholme Hotel, have been completed, and nothing has been left undone to ensure the success of the show.

Judging from inquiries received, there will be a record entry on hand, when Judge Burns commences to award the prizes. The secretary has already received an entry of four Airedale puppies from the famous Linton Kennels. These puppies will no doubt make the competition interesting as their sire and dam were both winners of the coveted purple before their present owner imported them.

Among the number of kennels that will be represented are the Dovedale, Eastham, Merstone, Craigside, Keatings, Pinehill, Shantung, Bank Bay, Hi Born and Glenmohr. There will also be one or more representatives of the English Pugs, which are gradually coming again into favor.

FOURTEEN PRIZES

Fourteen prizes will be awarded, and of this number, six will go to the puppies and three to the children's classes. The green class which is for dogs and bitches of all breeds and ages that have never been shown before, is well provided for in the prize list.

Owing to the large number of entries expected, two officials will take entries at the door from 7 to 7.30 p.m. and after that time none can be accepted, as the judging will commence at 7.30 sharp.

Colwood Golfers Will Compete For Captain's Prize

Colwood golfers will play on Sunday in an eighteen-hole, hidden hole competition for the prize of J. H. Richardson, the club captain. There will be six hidden holes, and full handicaps will be allowed. Post entries may be made.

One Jackson Cup Match To-morrow

Navy Play Saanich Thistles; Wests-Five C's Match Is Postponed

Tare Are Only Wednesday League Team in Series; Youngsters in Action

Owing to the fact that the Five C's are unable to field a team for their match with the Victoria Wests, only one Jackson Cup soccer fixtur will be seen to-morrow afternoon with the Saanich Thistles meeting the Navy at the Royal Athletic Park. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Being the only team which is entered from the Wednesday League considerable interest is being taken in the Navy. They have played a fair brand of soccer in the mid-week series, and should be able to provide plenty of opposition for the Thistles. The Thistles will field their usual team, and they figure on entering the second round at the expense of the tars.

The teams will be as follows:

Saanich Thistles — Rodger or Hogan, Joe Crowe, Armitage, Harper, Jim Crowe, F. Price, Viggers, Rickinson, Essler, Minnis and Ewing.

Navy—Zanelli, Robinson, Lovett, C. Whyte, Tom Watt, Roberts, Cartland, Poulter, Putland, Robson, Spriddell, Marr and Cozier.

Esquimalt vs. Bapcos, Victoria West Park. Referee, Bridgen.

Royal Oak vs. Y.M.C.A., Central Park. Referee, Armstrong.

Victoria City vs. Oaklands, upper ground, Beacon Hill. Referee, Robb.

All games will start at 3 o'clock.

Juvenile soccer teams will all be in action to-morrow afternoon with the following games:

DIVISION II

Provincial Cup-Tie

Five C's vs. Sons of England, at Royal Athletic Park.

Maple Leafs vs. Saanich Thistles, at lower Beacon hill.

A.A.U. Comes Under Fire Of Barbuti

Crack U.S. Runner and Olympic Champ Uses Harsh Words in Describing Heads

Is Indefinitely Suspended For Statements; Declares He Will Retire

New York, March 1—Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400-metre champion, was suspended indefinitely yesterday by the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union. The action was taken as a result of published statements, credited to Barbuti, criticizing the A.A.U. and its policies.

The committee's announcement said simply that Barbuti was declared "suspended from further amateur competition until such time as he proves or retracts the statements credited to him."

Since the burly sprinter, developed at Syracuse University, announced recently that his running career was over, the chances are that the suspension will be the first and last acts of his latest controversy.

Along with other star track and field performers, Barbuti had been called on the carpet by the registration committee Wednesday night to explain why he failed to start in the Buermyer 500 yards at the New York A.C. games.

It was while Barbuti was cooling his heels in an outer office at A.A.U. headquarters while the committee was in session that he is supposed to have delivered the outburst that led to his suspension.

According to published reports, Barbuti, angry over being summoned to explain his failure to run at the New York A.C. games, launched into what appeared to be an extemporaneous attack on A.A.U. policies while he was waiting for the committee's verdict on his own particular case Wednesday night.

LINING A.A.U. POCKETS

After saying he thought the organization "nervy," to call him to the mat, Barbuti was quoted as saying that he and other athletes had been lining the pockets of the A.A.U. and its affiliated clubs for years and that the organization expected athletes to sacrifice their business for the $200 or $300 in expenses the performers receive. He was quoted as declaring that the term "amateur" as applied to track and field athletics was a misnomer.

"I'm through with that gang of four flushers forever," he was quoted by one newspaper. "I inquired of the leading athletic stars of to-day and not one of them is making a decent living in business. The A.A.U. and the clubs do not sell insurance for me. I don't owe them anything and I can't afford to sacrifice my future for what they would pay me. I'm done with them. I shall never pull on a running shoe again, either in indoor or outdoor competition."

CLEARED BARBUTI

Subsequently the committee, unaware of this blast, came out of their huddle and cleared Barbutti of any violation of A.A.U. regulations in neglecting to appear at the New York A.C. games. Other star athletes, such as Nurmi, Cuhel, Quin, Baskin, Luttman, Tierney and Hussey were not so lucky.

Efforts to reach Barbuti at his home in Inwood, Long Island, failed early last night. The registration committee announced it was sending a letter to the Olympic title holder informing him of his suspension.

Local Soccer Team Selected

Strong Eleven Is Chosen to Oppose Washington Team in Home and Home Series

To oppose a team from the Washington State League a strong "all-star" soccer team has been selected from the Victoria and District Football League. The local team will oppose the Washington Club in Seattle on Sunday, March 9, while a return game will be played here on Saturday, April 20.

The local team, which will be managed by Joe Bloom, president of the Victoria and District League, is exceptionally strong. Hetherington, goalie of the Victoria Wests, has been selected for that position, while the full-backs will be Wes Harper and Joe Crowe of the Saanich Thistles. The half-backs picked include: Bob Preston, Victoria City, "Red" Hawkes, Victoria Wests, McBay, Victoria City, and Boyd of Esquimalt. The forward line is: Cameron, Victoria City; John Watt, Esquimalt; Glancy, Victoria City; Robinson, Victoria Wests; Mulcahy, Victoria Wests, and Tommy Smith, Victoria City.

Although these players have been selected, some of them may not be able to make the trip to Seattle, and in this case changes may be seen in the line-up.

D. McGary Wins Prize In Big Shoot Held At Del Monte

Del Monte, Cal., March 1.—Breaking 96 out of 100 targets, J. E. Hatch of Long Beach, won the diamond medal here yesterday in the sliding handicap tournament of the Grand Del Monte Handicap trap shoot.

Yesterday's results included: Singles 100, sixteen-yard targets. Del Monte sliding handicap—D. V. McGary, Victoria, 93, 25.

Downie's Goal Gives Fighting Buckaroos Draw With Vancouver

"Red" Conn, Captain of the Portland Club, Plays Big Part, Scoring Three Goals and Assisting in Another; Final Score Was 4-4; Six Goals Scored in First Period, With Lions Leading, 4-2; Cummings Forced to Leave Ice Through Injury; Teel and Phillips Each Draw Major Penalty.

Portland, Ore., March 1.—Although Portland did not win last night's hockey game from the Vancouver Lions, league leaders, it did not lose it, either. In one of the most unusual games of the season, the teams battled to a 4-4 overtime tie. Six goals were scored in the first period, the score at this time being 4-2 in favor of the visitors. Both teams steadied down in the second and there was no scoring. With Vancouver playing a fine defensive game, it looked as if the leaders would chalk up another victory.

STAR OF GAME

"RED" CONN

captain of the Portland Buckaroos, who was mainly responsible for their earning a draw with the Vancouver Lions last night in a Pacific Coast Hockey League game. The "red-headed" left winger scored three goals and then gave Dave Downie the pass that brought the tying counter in the last period. By getting four points Conn is now well up in the league scoring averages.

They figured without realizing that Captain Conn of the Buckaroos, who had scored both of Portland's goals was not through. The third period was 17 minutes and 37 seconds old when he shot a long, soft one that Jackson let get through him.

DOWNIE TIES SCORE

This brought the score up to 4-3. Downie, who had an assist on the last goal, shot another on a pass from Conn 1 minute and 4 seconds later, tying it. Both teams went the limit in the overtime to try and break it up, but the defence was too strong.

Portland had a break in the first period, when the opening goal, scored on a rebound shot by Conn, was deflected by Sanderson's skate and went into the net.

Cummings was injured in the second period and had to retire. Referee Ion dealt out penalties of six minutes each to Teel and Phillips in the third period. This was for the remainder of the period.

THE LINE-UPS

Vancouver—Jackson, Jerwa, Brennan, Somers, Phillips, Sanderson Arnott, McAdam, Beatty, Cummings.

Portland—Timmins, Johnson, McGoldrick, Downie, Conn, Tell, Pratt Armstrong, Bond Sande.

Referee, Ion.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Portland, Conn, .18; 2, Vancouver, Phillips, 2.11; 3, Vancouver, Phillips from Sanderson, 1.18; 4, Portland, Conn from Teel, 5.31; 5 Vancouver, Brennan from Somers 2.42; 6, Vancouver, Cummings from Jerwa, 6.20.

Second period—No score.

Third period—7, Portland, Conn from Downie, 17.37; 8, Portland, Downie from Conn, 1.04.

Overtime—No score.

PENALTIES

First period—Phillips, Somers Sande, McAdam.

Second period—Sande, Somers, Brennan (2), Arnott, Beatty, Teel.

Third period—Teel, Phillips, Brennan (2), Armstrong (2).

Overtime—Conn.

Still having a one-point advantage over the Portland Buckaroos in the race for second place in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, as a result of the Bucks playing to a draw with the Lions last night, the Seattle Eskimos will act as hosts to Vancouver to-night.

An added feature of the game will be the battle between Cec Brown of the Eskimos, and Art Somers of the Lions for the lead in the scoring averages. Somers got one point in last night's game on an assist and as a result is just that much ahead of Browne.

The Eskimos will start the same team that trotted on to the ice against the Cubs last Tuesday night. The forward line will be composed of Walker, Browne and Harris. Borland and Johanneson will compose the defence line.

A victory for the Eskimos to-night would give them a three-point lead on the Bucks for second place.

Garage Teams Will Battle

Whippets and Dodges Meet To-night in Play-offs For Hockey Title

Whippets, leaders of the Garage Hockey League, will enter the first play-off game for the Home Oil Cup, against the Dodges at full strength to-night. From the moment Lou Tweedie drops the puck between the sticks of the rival centres, at 8.15 o'clock, the teams are expected to play one of the hardest games ever witnessed in this loop.

Throughout the season Plimley's Whippets have kept well in front of the other teams in the league, but the Dodges are expected to force them to use all their hockey ability in the play-off.

Preceding the feature tussle, Plimley and Ritchie, Commercial League champions, will play an all-star team composed of boys under the age of twenty. This game will commence at 7.15 o'clock.

McLarnin to Fight Glick

Vancouver Boy Will Advance to Welterweight Division After To-night

New York, March 1—Jimmy McLarnin, smiling Irish battler from Vancouver, enters his bout with Joe Glick at Madison Square Garden to-night a 7-5 favorite to record his third victory over the Williamsburg tailor.

The third meeting again is for ten rounds at 138 pounds. Glick probably will be outweighed by three or four pounds.

McLarnin weighed 140 pounds before he began his workout but he should be down to the stipulated figure by this afternoon.

The chances are that after this bout McLarnin will campaign exclusively among the welterweights.

Glick, a legitimate lightweight, has had no trouble with regard to the weight question.

Bobby Robinson Is Hurt In Accident

Hamilton, March 1—M. M. "Bobby" Robinson, member of the Ontario Athletic Commission and manager of the Canadian track and field team in the last Olympic Games, was painfully injured in a motor accident on the Lake Shore Highway when on his way to his home in Burlington yesterday.

The car in which Mr. Robinson was riding skidded and struck the rear of a bus. He braced himself to meet the impact and the jolt snapped the bone of his leg above the ankle.

Blackburn Has Fine Chance of Pulling Off Double Victory

By PENALTY KICK

Gradually receding to its present proportions the wheel which represents the English Football Association Cup competition has now only eight cogs. Each one represents an individual team which will perform in the sixth round to be played on Saturday. As was only to be expected the First Division claims a monopoly on the remaining chances, for West Bromwich Albions are the Second Division's solitary survivors. The Third Division is no longer represented, for Swindon Town, with colors flying, succumbed only after one of the most glorious cup achievements ever accomplished by third-rate organizations.

Not altogether unexpected is the fact that the recent cup finalists still remain in the contest, but of the other six teams only Woolwich Arsenal appeared in the sixth round last year. So strenuous and so exacting has this contest become that it is not surprising to find that such brilliant league teams as Sheffield Wednesday, Sunderland, Leicester City, Everton and Derby County could not stand the challenge of teams of spirit and scoring power and teams capable of big performances at intervals.

A blend of skill and spirit may be found in the proof of ability produced by such teams as Huddersfield and Aston Villa and that the cup holders have proven their capability of making a determined bid for the retention of the trophy is a pleasing attribute. Should Blackburn Rovers again be able to claim the silverware they will have emulated a feat never before achieved since they themselves secured the cup in successive years in 1890-91.

GREAT CUP FIGHTERS

It is an acomplishment well within their power for, having demonstrated their prowess as cup fighters, they have shown superior league form even to the year they won the trophy. The twelfth position in the table found a resting place for them after the final competition game was played. Now they have a chance to pull off the double event, but Sheffield Wednesday may provide an impediment which will prove more serious and formidable as the individual contests progress.

Eight games will also be played in the competition for the Scottish Football Association Cup.

BLACKBURN VS. BOLTON

This is, in all probability, the last time the cup holders will be able to play before a home crowd, to receive the plaudits of encouragement from those upon whom they must depend for an existence. Blackburn Rovers have in this contest illustrated their visiting superiority—or can their home performances have impressed an indelible suggestion on the instincts of soccer's followers as to suggest home ineptitude? In three meetings in the cup competition the Rovers have scored three goals at home, one each against Barnsley, Derby and Bury, but only in the first and third cases was that single goal sufficient to obtain a victory for them. In the match with Derby County the latter team was able to reply. But what was the result? Blackburn Rovers went to Derby for the replay, knowing that the home team would experience a tonic from their goal at Blackburn, determined to uphold the honor of a famous club, and scored a victory of three clear goals. This game should prove one of the tid-bits of the sixth round, for Bolton Wanderers, realizing what their opponents have at stake and their determination to hold and to reclaim what is rightfully theirs, will probably produce previously undiscovered talent to bring off a surprise win.

ASTON VILLA VS. ARSENAL

It is gratifying to realize that a team of such calibre as the Villa have been able to negotiate their preliminary hurdles successfully. Deceiving only to flatter by a scoreless home draw with Clapton Orient in the fourth round the Midlanders stepped out of their shell in the replay and swamped the lowly second division Orient by eight clear goals. Superlative is the only description which can be found to adequately describe the form being displayed by Aston Villa. Seventeen goals in three games in the present cup series suggests a great and goal-getting combination with a defence as strong and virile as anything which can be found to compare with it. Woolwich Arsenal will not lose sight of the fact that they are not playing at Highbury, but since it has been shown that visitors sometimes can produce the needful marksmanship it is not unlikely that the Londoners will force a replay. A team with plenty of sparkle and a $50,000 player in their front rank may on this occasion be able to produce a capability to stage one of the "big performances at intervals" and enter the semi-finals covered with glory. Then, again, it took the Arsenal three hours to obtain a single goal victory against a Third Division team in the fifth round, for Swindon made a glorious exit.

PORTSMOUTH VS. WEST HAM

There was not much to choose between a team fighting to avoid relegation to the Second Division and another fighting to gain promotion to the First Division when they met at Chelsea to play an English Cup fifth round draw. The club fighting for promotion had the advantage of ground but the lowly Portsmouth were able to press them to a draw and then brought them home to renew a fruitless struggle. With the lack of form and the loss of points come diminished revenue, but their cup success may provide sufficient funds to enable them to retain a place which the two-hundredth part of a goal recently obtained for them and kept Manchester City in the Second Division for another season. Both Portsmouth and West Ham played drawn games on their opponents' ground and then won the replay at home. The game will be another close one for the suburbanites, but the team which so unceremoniously caused Sunderland's exit and then applied the tourniquet to the highly respected Corinthians, following up with a win over Bournemouth, should be able to enter the semi-final without any serious call on their reserve power.

W. BROMWICH VS. HUDDERSFIELD

It is practically certain that Wilfred Lewis, the Welsh International forward, whom Huddersfield Town secured from Swansea Town in October and who was injured in the second game in which he played for the Yorkshire club at a time when Huddersfield were in such dire need of his services that they could not spare him to play for his country, will not be able to appear in the team again this season. Despite this misfortune and also the fact that they will be playing on neutral ground because West Bromwich are the Second Division's only hope, Huddersfield are, at least, anticipating appearance at Wembley. True, they were beaten in the final last year, but that does not alter the fact that they cannot survive this time. Seven of the players included in last year's cup final played in the fourth round against Leeds United, whose prospects were nipped in the bud by three clear goals. West Bromwich have not, by any means, a hopeless task. All through the competition home teams have enjoyed the breaks and the Albions may also realize the kindness of the fates. But Huddersfield Town, on whom all eyes were focussed when it once appeared there was a possibility of them winning the league, have only a remote chance of pulling off the double event.

Heeney Will Make Return

Boston, March 1.—Installed as a 10-7 favorite in the betting, Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, yesterday ended training for what he considers the most important bout of his erratic career, the ten-round clash with Tom Heeney of New Zealand to-night at the Boston Garden. Maloney appeared in remarkable shape and was confident that he would dispose of Heeney in easy fashion, thereby gaining revenge for the one-round knockout the New Zealander scored on him in their first meeting eighteen months ago.

Victoria Makes Good Start In Cricket Match

Melbourne, March 1.—Victoria got off to a great start in their return cricket match with England which opened here to-day when they scored 346 for four wickets. W. M. Woodfull, Australia's test match player, was top scorer for Victoria, getting 138 not out.

HORSE RACING

Tia Juana, March 1.—Charley Irwin's Taddywawa, with a twenty-eight-pound pull in weight over Doctor Wilson, the favorite, won the event carded as the main attraction, the Orange Blossom Handicap. The three-year-old filly made her opposition look at some fast pace, after reaching the midway mark and increased her lead from the stretch mouth to the wire. Doctor Wilson, running his usual good race, reached contention at the second quarter, and handily beat his stable-mate, Bridegroom, for the place.

The major marked favorite, Vachell, in the fifth race at a mile and an eighth was the day's biggest upset. Jockey Willie Barrett evidently underestimated the finishing ability of the pacemakers, Louie Wright and Sapodilla, who had something left after pulling the favorite along for more than a mile. When Barrett got busy, Vachell moved forward faster than the others, but could only get to the show hole.

Mae L. Rowe slipped out of the non-winning class in the first race.

Results follow:

First race, four furlongs—1, Mae L. Rowe, $11.20, $7.20, $3.60; 2, Beth Hogan, $5.20, $3.00; 3, Norab, $3.00. Time .48.

Second race, mile and seventy yards—1, Babylon, $5.20, $3.20, $3.00; 2, Barrie Oliver, $8.20, $5.20; 3, Shasta Cherry, $4.20. Time 1.45.

Third race, five furlongs—1, Dick's Seth, $14.80, $9.60, $6.60; 2, Camisole, $10.60, $6.00; 3, Dan Stewart, $32.00. Time 1.02.

Fourth race, six furlongs—1, Rolling Star, $15.20, $6.00, $4.00; 2, No Effort, $17.80, $7.00; 3, Virginia Beauty, $6.60. Time 1.12 1-5.

Fifth race, mile and an eighth—1, Louie Wright, $14.00, $5.00, $2.60; 2, Sapodilla, $5.40, $2.80; 3, Vachell, $2.40. Time 1.55.

The Bidding: South bids no-trump and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads six of clubs. What card should be played from Dummy?

The Error: Declarer plays queen of clubs from Dummy.

The Correct Method: Applying the rule of eleven, Declarer knows East can hold only one card in the club suit and it is higher than six of clubs. If a finesse is taken and East obtains the lead, he will in all probability lead hearts. Opponents will make five tricks in that suit, leading spades thereafter so that Declarer will be set. Declarer should win the first trick with ace of clubs and return to his hand with a diamond. Then, leading clubs again and finessing according to the card played by West, at least two tricks will be made in clubs, six tricks in diamonds and at least one in the other suits, so that game is safely made.

The Principle: Never finesse before anticipating the final result.

played politics would have short shift from me. That's what I said, Mr. Speaker, and that's what I did! I demanded their heads and they rolled in the basket."

These sanguinary executions, it turned out, removed the heads of six road foremen and one assessor, and even that did not make the House shudder. Indeed, it chuckled with delight as Colonel Peck went on to give details of this moral butchery. He told how eight men had been dismissed from the Government rock-crusher in 1924 because they voted for him. He told how a Liberal family had reigned over Salt Spring Island like an hereditary dynasty. He gave the House a colorful account of the great game of politics as it is played, unknown to the rest of the world, in the dark recesses of those other islands which dot the Gulf of Georgia. Finally, he told how Mr. Manson, as Attorney-General, had come to Ganges to rescue The Islands from Colonel Peck.

Mr. Manson, said Colonel Peck, had come to Ganges with a Provincial policeman, with a corps of spellbinders and with his famous magic lantern. But the young bloods of Ganges, growing tired of the magic lantern and looking forward to the dance which was to follow it, had ruined the whole meeting by blowing the horns of scores of automobiles parked outside.

It was just at the end of the day that the real trouble broke loose. Mr. Pooley rose on a question of privilege to explain why he had dismissed Judge Mrs. MacGill and to attack the newspapers for attacking him without knowing the facts. Mr. Pooley's speech revealed incidentally a spirit of co-operation between the members of the Cabinet which was really touching. It arose in this wise:

As Mr. Pooley was speaking, Mr. Manson insisted that under the rules he must move a motion. Now, Mr. Pooley had no motion to move and had never intended to move one, but Mr. Hinchliffe beside him was equal to the emergency. He immediately began to write out a motion regretting that the press was as it was and Mr. Pooley talked on until such time as Mr. Hinchliffe should finish. From the gallery it appeared that Mr. Hinchliffe was painfully slow and horribly thorough. He wrote a word and rubbed it out, started another and then began over again, and meanwhile Mr. Pooley had to invent many more ideas to talk about. At last it was done, however, and Mr. Pooley said he moved it, seconded by the Minister of Finance, who like Mr. Pooley, had never seen the motion, Mr. Shelly, of course, approved with great loyalty and the motion was duly moved.

This started things. Mr. Manson began a passionate reply, but was tripped up by Mr. Speaker Jones, who warned him that he would stand no reflections on the chair. Finally, Mr. Manson adjourned the debate. As Mr. Pattullo and Mr. Ian Mackenzie and others indicated that they also would speak, apparently the trouble has just begun.

If the earth had no atmosphere we would be subjected to a constant bombardment of shooting stars.

SHELLY'S METHOD OF HANDLING TRUST FUNDS SUBJECT TO CRITICISM

Suggesting that if Mr. Shelly really desired the co-operation of all parties in his effort to administer the finances of the Province soundly, he might have been more moderate in his language referring to the administration of preceding ministers who were quite as sincere as himself, Mr. Pearson commented that Mr. Shelly had shown himself to be an apt student of party politics.

"It is not surprising that a man who has been as successful in his personal affairs as the Minister of Finance, should think his own methods are best," said Mr. Pearson, "but when on accounting matters that are obviously open to argument he imputes incompetence and wrong methods to those who have laid down their practice after consultation with some of the best authorities in the country, he is displaying bad taste.

"The time for vainglorious boasting will be at the end of the four-year term rather than now."

SHELLY TEXT BOOK

Mr. Pearson suggested that Mr. Shelly had not delved sufficiently deeply in the text book on economics from which he had quoted or he would have read statements that increasing expenditures were a healthy sign in a growing country, and he would have found a chapter on social welfare showing that the cost of social services was not a dead loss to the state.

Mr. Shelly's alarm over special warrants, supplementary and statutory commitments, and alleged deficits was commented upon. If the Minister had been fair he would have told that a great part of these expenditures and commitments were undertaken after the Conservatives took office, said Mr. Pearson. He would also have said that there were earnings upon which some of these commitments depended for which he did not give the late Government credit. He also withheld the fact that the admittedly increasing revenue might reasonably be expected to cover the extra expenditures incurred by the late Government.

"But this would not paint the picture black enough," commented Mr. Pearson.

Dealing with the manner in which the balance sheet and public accounts had been kept by the late Government, Mr. Pearson charged Mr. Shelly with unfairness in using the term "camouflage." The methods in many cases had been laid down by the firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., whose reputation the Minister would not dare question. Excellent authority for administering trust funds in the manner adopted by the late Government could be adduced, he said.

He declared it was audacious for the Conservative Party, which in the days of surpluses due to sale of natural resources, had plunged the Province into extravagances which falling revenues, due to the collapse of the boom, would not maintain, thereby leaving deficits of $12,000,000 in their last four years of office prior to 1916, now to find fault with a cash deficit of $4,000,000 on a twelve-year Liberal administration, even if the calculation were true.

"But wait until you see the Budget balancing of the present Government; then will be the time for the Minister to boast," he said.

He trusted that the Minister's intention to re-organize the civil service on efficient lines would not be the excuse for relieving the services of despised Liberal officials. "Not all the brains in the Province are stored in the confines of the Conservative organization," he said.

SOCIAL LEGISLATION

Dealing with social and labor legislation, he maintained that it was the duty of the Legislature to regulate industry so as to insure the greatest degree possible of happiness, and of prosperity for the citizens of the Province.

The Minister had looked at the cost of these social services, hospitals, education, pensions, etc., without considering the alternate economic saving through improvement in the health of the people, in the increased capacity of citizens through the removal from their minds of the danger of impending want, through the healthier citizens made possible by protecting orphans, and through the relief to people from being relieved of the care of unfortunate dependents.

"By taking care of these weak spots in our economic system we shall in time increase the efficiency of citizens to a degree which will in itself more than offset the cost to society," stated Mr. Pearson.

The cost was not as great as it seemed, he stated, for by social legislation the burden of private charity was lightened on individuals equally over the whole population.

Mr. Pearson disagreed with the Minister's calculations that the cost of social legislation had been increasing unduly rapidly in British Columbia. While per capita expenditure was greater, productive income was greater in about similar proportion, he pointed out.

While per capita expenditure on these items had risen more rapidly than in other provinces over a twenty-five-year period, the rise in the past ten years had been less than in any of the other provinces, the ratio in one case being one to fourteen. With the largest productive per capita income of any province in Canada, he urged there was still room for further legislation for raising the conditions of unfortunates.

NOT GENUINE ALARM

Mr. Shelly's professed alarm at the increased expenditures, he said, was not genuine, but was based on recognition that they must still continue, a circumstance he knew it would be difficult to reconcile with Conservative criticism of past increases.

ORIENTAL CRITICISM

As a concrete suggestion towards reduction of Oriental competition, he suggested that legislation and administration designed to compel Orientals to live up to the standard of other citizens might go far to remove the ability of the Orientals to compete with white labor on an unfair basis. Chinese communities were overcrowded and a menace to health, he stated, and conditions prevailing there would not be tolerated in a white community.

COAL INDUSTRY

Turning to the coal industry, he said "there is a great deal of room for co-operation on behalf of that other great industry, the coal industry," said Mr. Pearson. "This industry is going through a trying period, and the difficulties of this period would be considerably eased if those industries which use fuel would be prepared to sacrifice a little in order to use this product in place of the imported fuel oil.

"This is for the special benefit of the citizens of that great City, Vancouver, and it may also be that this Government can help with its influence—for instance, is it not a peculiar situation that a railway passing through the whole of this coal belt, deriving a great portion of its revenue from this coal industry, using coal oil imported from U.S.A.? If influence can be used in this matter it certainly should be.

"Then there is the question of experimentation in the development of the byproducts of coal. I ask that this Government give a great deal of consideration to this. It is true we may not be able to go far in this, but some steps have been taken along this line and they should be followed up."

Says—Now Stiff Joints Must Go!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases

Yes; it's true—the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "You'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease: They call this wonder working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine of finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

All druggists have a big supply of it and druggists everywhere report a big demand.

ARGUES FOR SIMPLE PLAN

John Dean Says Victoria Should Give Water Service to Sidney

The tendency of public bodies to set up a multiplicity of boards, commissions and controls, to direct such municipal undertakings as waterworks, should be sternly checked, John Dean this morning declared, when appearing before Judge P. S. Lampman at the court house as a witness in the hearings of the commission inquiring into Saanich affairs and the petition of the rural wards for secession.

Mr. Dean considered that extension of waterworks services throughout Saanich Peninsula should be undertaken by the city of Victoria, as the owner of the whole of the water resources of southern Vancouver Island. The whole administration of water affairs could be simplified, with sole authority vested in a superintendent of water, he suggested.

Mr. Dean discussed taxation, assessment, and the difficulties incident to operating a municipality comprising distinctly urban and rural sections. He was of opinion that imposition of taxes upon the full assessed worth of improvements would be of little relief to farmers as a whole.

R. R. F. Sewell, clerk to the Saanich council, gave the commissioner information regarding the municipal properties of Saanich in the different wards, explained how assessments were made and submitted data upon taxation in the seven wards of Saanich.

INCREASE IS NOT SO GREAT

Esquimalt School Board Says Estimates Not $3,550 More Than Last Year

That some councillors had been dwelling under a misunderstanding with regards to the increase in the school estimates, was intimated at the Esquimalt School Board meeting held in Lampson Street School last night. During the council meeting last week some members of the council had thought the increase totaled $3,550. Perusal of last year's estimates showed that this was approximately $1,000 more than was the case. As a result of this the board does not expect the school tax to be as high as previously intimated. However, it is understood that the council still thinks that the rate of taxation for this department will be over one mill higher.

Reports from the principals of the high and graded schools were received and accepted. While discussing them, the board stated its intention of having the grounds improved and making minor adjustments to the school's equipment. Reports from the school nurse, the high school inspector and the auditor were also accepted.

Accounts and salaries were moved paid.

APPOINTMENTS UNDER REVIEW

Committee Inquiries Into Procedure of Civil Service

After calling for orders-in-council and records from the office of Arthur Cox, Civil Service Commissioner, H. D. Twigg, Conservative Victoria, elicited the information this morning that a grade A clerk in the Education Department had been employed since April 1926 to August 1928 without the necessary order-in-council for his promotion from a lower grade having been put through.

Failure to put the order through occured while the previous civil service commissioner was in office, Mr. Cox said, and the error had been continued until August, 1928.

In the course of the discussion Mr. Cox informed the committee that competitive examinations had been eliminated except in the case of stenographers, scalers, rangers and assistant rangers. Other appointments were made on recommendation.

SALARY GOES BY FAST

Mr. Manson referred to the new factory inspector whose salary jumped from $175 to $216 within fifteen days after he was appointed. Questioning his qualification Mr. Manson said he was a carpenter. He knew nothing about elevators and employer after employer had refused him permission to inspect elevators on the grounds that he was not qualified.

Dr. W. H. Sutherland recalled that the old inspector was discharged on a day's notice and asked the Commissioner if it were not customary for a man to receive a month's notice or a month's salary in lieu of notice. Mr. Cox replied that this was a matter for the department concerned to recommend. Mr. Manson pointed out the assistant inspector was well qualified, was appointed in 1914 by the Conservative Government and had been on the job ever since.

Audit Again Draws Fire

Nanaimo Member Corrects Impression of Incorrect Statement

A reference in the Government auditors' report on the Cameron drainage scheme between Nanaimo and Courtenay was again under fire this morning in the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature when G. S. Pearson asked: "If the auditors turn out statements like this what faith can we place in the rest of the report?"

Mr. Pearson had reference to the statement of the auditors that as nothing had been received on account of assessments, appearently the people concerned placed no value on their property. In names mentioned after this statement his was on the list. The property in which he was interested was in the name of Pearson and MacGregor.

C. E. Sonley, secretary of the scheme, produced his books showing the account in the name of G. S. Pearson and E. F. MacGregor. It also showed two assessments were fully paid up and others were in arrears. Some of those in arrears placed a high value on their property, Mr. Pearson said. "I want to establish the fact that I am not as a member of this Legislature trying to shirk my responsibilities. That is what might be inferred from this report: It was unfortunate they should have singled out my name in this account," he said.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL VOTE IS DECISIVE

Proposed New Institution Is Rejected on Third Referendum By Ratepayers

Defeat of By-law Leaves Situation Unchanged, Says Trustee Beckwith

The Technical School By-law met a decisive defeat at the polls yesterday when only one-third of those eligible to vote turned out. A total of 3,209 votes were cast, 1,380 in favor of its passage and 1,817 against it. The by-law failed by some 546 votes from making the required three-fifths majority or 1,926 votes.

The polls were closed by M. F. Hunter, returning officer, at 8 p.m. and the last ballot had been counted by 8.35 p.m. The official count took place shortly after, but the ultimate fate of the by-law was never in doubt after the first 100 ballots had been counted.

Trustee George Jay, chairman of the City School Trustees, was present at the opening of the ballots, but left soon after the count indicated the defeat of the measure. Other members of the board who had been present during the day took the results over the radio. Trustee Jay declined to comment on the significance of the vote.

SOURCE OF REGRET

Trustee J. L. Beckwith, chairman of the finance committee of the board, said it was naturally a source of great regret to members of the School Board that the by-law was defeated. The trustees had been very much in earnest and were not trifling with the matter, he said.

There was now no doubt that a technical school grant from Government sources would be lost to Victoria forever, continued Mr. Beckwith, and pointed to the situation created at Victoria High School, where emergency accommodation is now in use and an increase in the student roll of city students expected in September.

Referring to the situation in Saanich Mr. Beckwith said he hoped the time would never come when Saanich pupils left the city High School. The withdrawal of Saanich pupils would mean a loss to the city, he stated, and their training in Saanich would not be found as easy as imagined.

"I feel that the defeat of the Technical School By-law is a very serious mistake," continued Mr. Beckwith, who predicted that inside of twelve months Victoria ratepayers would have to face the issue of providing adequate High School accommodation, whether Saanich pupils were then attending or not.

The board had been criticized for submitting the by-law so soon again after its last defeat, but the reason had been that this had been the last opportunity to take advantage of Government grants to the tune of $105,000, said Mr. Beckwith.

Voting on the by-law proved to be heavier than indicated by the experience of the forenoon. Up to noon less than 600 ratepayers had voted, but between that hour and the close of the polls over 2,600 votes were cast.

Subdivisions Are Foreseen

Proposed Secession Boundary Too Close to City, Reeve Crouch States

Disadvantages which would follow disincorporation of the rural wards of Saanich, or inclusion of the inner wards in Victoria, were sketched by Reeve William Crouch yesterday afternoon before Judge P. S. Lampman at the Courthouse.

Differences between farmers and small holders would arise again almost immediately if a new boundary were struck, the Reeve considered. To attain low taxes many families would move to new subdivisions further out from Victoria, which offer small acreage tracts.

"This Utopia with low taxes of yours, Mr. O'Halloran, will bring settlers with a rush," commented His Honor.

If secession were accorded the northern areas, the Reeve considered that Gordon Head and other smaller areas would seek similar concessions. "Saanich is in the finest position of any municipality in British Columbia. After this year, there will be no general debt levy whatever in Saanich," the Reeve said.

BOUNDARY TOO CLOSE

Asked if he was opposing secession, Reeve Crouch firmly contested separation as proposed, because the suggested boundary was too close to Victoria. Regarding secession of the northern area, the Reeve declared his attitude to be neutral. "I have not at any time opposed secession. I have told Ward Six that I was prepared to help pay their expenses if it was proved the people wanted secession," he said.

Petitions meant little, the Reeve considered, people signing documents to get rid of persistent canvassers. He placed little value upon the signatures enrolled upon the secession petition presented to the Provincial Government.

The time was not ripe for taxing improvements in Saanich, the municipality having given the residents no public improvements, said the Reeve, declaring he was not a singletax advocate. He had consistently campaigned against taxing improvements.

Since his administration the inner wards had increased contributions to the municipal treasury, and the persistent deficits prior to 1927 had been almost abolished. If Ward Seven were credited with water profits, the deficit of $1,600 in 1928 would be converted into a surplus, the Reeve said.

Manga, a Hindu, was fined $5 and $2.50 costs in City Police Court this morning for driving a truck across the sidewalk on Hillside Avenue, where there was no runway.

A. H. DEVENISH VISITOR HERE

Manager of Royal Alexandra Hotel in Winnipeg Spending Holiday in Victoria

A. H. Devenish, manager of the Royal Alexandra Hotel in Winnipeg, is the most recent of Canadian Pacific hotel managers to visit Victoria.

He expects to remain in the city at least another week before returning to the Manitoba capital.

"This is the hotel holiday period and I came West for a short vacation," said Mr. Devenish at the Empress to-day.

The indications are that the coming tourist season will be a particularly active one, according to the Royal Alexandra manager.

Preparations are being made all over the company's hotel system to handle record travel, he said.

Mr. Devenish referred to the open Winter that had been experienced on the prairies up to the end of the year.

"We were playing golf up to December 15 and that is remarkable for Manitoba," he remarked.

MANAGERS COME WEST

All the managers of C.P.R. western hotels have visited Victoria during the last few weeks.

Ray Kennedy, manager of the Hotel Saskatchewan in Regina, was the first to pay a call. Two trips have been made here within the last three months by Guy Davenport, manager of the Banff Springs Hotel.

H. F. Matthews, manager of C.P.R. western hotels with headquarters at Winnipeg, has visited the city on two occasions since the middle of December, and on his most recent trip West, Mr. Matthews was accompanied by M. P. Delahanty, assistant manager of western hotels, and formerly manager of the C.P.R. hotel at Banff, Alta.

CITY NEEDS MORE RAIN

Victoria's Precipitation Far Below Average; 115 Hours of Sunshine in February

"March winds and April showers bring forth May flowers" is an old maxim, but if the flowers are to come this year Jupiter Pluvius will have to work overtime to make up for the deficiency in rainfall during the first two months of the year and all of 1928.

Already this year the precipitation is 4.03 inches below the average, while 1928 ended with a deficiency of 7.64 inches.

"There has been a very pronounced scarcity of rain so far," stated Napier Denison, of the Gonzales Hill observatory, in giving his weather report for February, this morning. "But although there was an astonishing lack of moisture last month and for thirteen days the mercury dropped below the freezing point, Victoria was twenty-two hours above the average in sunshine for February.

LONG COLD SNAP

During the month the city passed through thirteen days when the temperature was below the freezing point. This cold snap, coupled with that of January, proved to be one of the most severe sustained periods of cold weather the city has experienced for years. On February 25 the mercury reached its highest point, standing at 49 degrees, while on the second day of the month it dropped to 24 degrees in the standard screen thermometer and to 19 on the ground. The mean temperature was 37 degrees, four below the average.

The sun shone for 115 hours and 45 minutes during February, while the average for that period is approximately 94 hours.

STOCK MARKETS AND FINANCIAL NEWS

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

New York, March 1—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Bureau says to-day:

NEW MARKET RECORD LOOMING

"With the exception of the copper group, which temporarily appears to have accomplished enough, I believe that the trend of to-day's market will continue upward with everything pointing to the fulfillment of yesterday's prediction that Hoover would be inaugurated to the accompaniment of a new high average record.

"Federal Reserve Board authorities have temporarily put to rest what, in my opinion, were always ungrounded fears concerning the credit situation by advising the United States Senate that it was satisfied with what had been accomplished since the board issued its warning and that it did not recommend any legislation on speculation. While for the next two weeks there may be no radical easing in money rates, due to the approach of tax day, I believe that the trend of money rates thereafter will be distinctly downward with exceptionally cheap money prevailing later in the year.

COMMENT

"I believe the time has arrived when you can quite logically be advised to take half profits in the stocks of copper producing companies, making an exception in the case of American Smelting and Refining, if you can classify this stock as a copper.

"I look for American Can to become the market leader in the industrial division now that it has recaptured its previous top. While for months we have set an objective of 160 for this issue, we have very good reasons for advising that this objective can be increased to 200. Consequently the issue receives another buying recommendation now.

"While we are on the subject of cans and tin I would likewise direct attention to Patiño Mines and recommend it for purchase as we learn that, as a result of the exceptional gain in earnings last year, directors at their meeting in March will increase the dividend which means that this stock, now available around 42, can be purchased to yield close to ten per cent.

"So far as U.S. Rubber is concerned I still think it is cheap any place under 60, and know that members of the DuPont family have advised their friends a short time ago to buy the stock, hold it and they would see it double in price.

"Consolidated Aircraft continues its advance, is up to a new high and about to pass out of the 30s. Buy it under 40 and you will have the opportunity to sell it at 50.

"There will shortly appear on the New York Curb American ctfs. for Kolster Brandes Limited, the English subsidiary of Kolster Radio. The stock is temporarily selling over the counter around $10 a share. Some surplus profits can wisely be devoted to this issue before it makes its initial open market appearance. I realize it is difficult to credit yesterday's report concerning the linking of U.S. Steel with Colorado Fuel and Iron but since the abolition of Pittsburgh surplus quotations in the steel industry this is really the most logical move which the steel corporation could make and I am confident it will be made."

Brett and Ker Join Branson In Building

Important Business Development to Follow Broughton-Broad Deal

As announced at the first of the week, the old Weiler Building on the northeast corner of Broad and Broughton Streets is to be rebuilt as a modern financial business structure.

Details of the development were announced to-day by C. L. Branson, president of Branson, Brown and Company, and R. H. Ker, of Brett and Ker, who jointly purchased the property from J. S. H. Matson and associates for $75,000.

When the building is reconstructed, the corner will be occupied by Brett and Ker with the Canada Trust and the Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation, which will be moved from the Union Building at Government and View Streets. The L-shaped remainder of the ground floor of the building will be occupied by Branson, Brown and Company, with entrances on both Broad and Broughton Streets. The Branson brokerage office will have a quotation board ninety-five feet long, the largest in British Columbia, and will carry all the chief Canadian as well as New York and Chicago markets. There will be a large hall with comfortable seats for traders, who will be able to see every figure on the board clearly by means of a special system of lighting.

LADIES' GALLERY

Because of the large number of women now speculating in the markets a ladies' gallery will be built for their exclusive use. There will also be a special ladies' entrance to their board room gallery and a special staff will care for their needs.

Another feature of the reconstructed building will be the installation of an elaborate system of vaults and safety deposit boxes for the use of both firms.

The three stories of the present building will be completely reconstructed, Mr. Branson said. The work will cost more than $65,000. The exterior of the building will be finished in keeping with the improvements being made on nearby structures. The two upper stories will be converted into offices and commercial space.

COMPLETE SERVICE

"With the development we are planning on this property and the association of our two firms and the mortgage and trust company, we will in that building offer the most complete financial service possible anywhere under one roof," Mr. Ker said.

N.Y. Market Gossip

By R. P. Clark Leased Wire

New York, March 1.—Spicer Mfg. which made a new high, is looked on with special favor by a leading banking group that has been accumulating this stock over a period of several months. These interests insisted that the stock is now earning far above estimates published before the end of last year, and their position is apparently confirmed by the statement made in the application to list new preferred stock and additional common stock, showing that the earnings in the year ended December 31, 1928, were equal to $8.13 a share on the common stock. Some of those who have been identified with recent buying of Spicer tell associates that they will make strenuous endeavors to have the stock restored to the dividend list within a short time. No dividends have been paid on the common stock since 1920.

There is continued strong buying of Bethlehem, but it was restricted in its movements because of the action of U.S. Steel common. It was insisted by those who have been concerned in the bullish action that its advance will be continued until it sells far above its present price.

A good deal of bullish talk was also heard on Colorado Fuel, partly based on the action of that stock during the past half-year, when a demand was in evidence. Even at times when the general market was unsettled and reactions that occurred in those periods were followed by quick returns to around its previous high levels.

Developments in the copper industry again included important bullish factors, most interest being attached to the further advance in the metal. Kennecott at the present time is receiving increased attention chiefly because of prospects of soon being placed on a $5 dividend basis.

(By B.C. Bond Corporation's Leased Wire.)

LED BY COPPERS MARKET SIZZLES; SALES 6,000,000

New York, March 1.—With copper climbing to be quoted as high as 19½ cents to-day, domestic price, copper stocks went wild to-day, on top of their big rises of yesterday.

Anaconda opened at 149¾, and shot up to 155. Greene Cananea went from 185¼ to 189. American Smelters went from 122⅝ to 124⅜.

Practically the whole copper list made new highs to-day. Among the others, besides the foregoing, which reached new record highs, were: Calumet and Hecla at 61⅞; Cerro de Pasco at 119⅜; Chile at 111⅞; Granby at 95⅝; Howe Sound at 81½; Kennecott at 92¾, ex-dividend; Inspiration at 66⅜; Greene Cananea at 189; Miami at 46; Magma at 79⅞; Nevada Consolidated at 60¾; Andes at 68; Calumet and Arizona at 141⅞; Butte at 10½.

Total sales for the day went over the 6,000,000 share mark, reaching 6,015,200.

With money easy around 8 per cent, and industrials used in the Dow Jones averages back to around the record high of 322.06, establish just before the Federal Reserve warning, bullish enthusiasm continued rampant in the latter part of the session.

New York, March 1—Great buoyancy was shown by the market in the first hour, extremely heavy transactions during that period but later enthusiasm was not quite so aggressively demonstrated, and prices tapered off somewhat. There was no weakness in the afternoon, but little more irregularity indicating that considerable profit-taking was in progress although public demand for the active stock absorbed the selling to a sufficient extent to keep the list on an even keel.

Call money stayed at eight per cent all day and in fact funds were in comfortable supply at that figure. In the afternoon attention was directed to the rails, which advanced under the leadership of B and O. January earnings are making a most impressive exhibit with net income of the roads thus far reporting thirty-six per cent ahead of last January.

All during the present week the market has ignored the railroads and the excellent earnings statements, but today there were reports of some switching from the coppers to the steam transportation groups.

Domestic copper was 19¼ cents delivered, but it was reported that large consumers were beginning to buy more cautiously and also reports that the larger producers were unwilling to see a runaway market develop.

Preferring to stabilize the selling price level. The close of the market was off a little from the highs in the industrial list, but observers were inclined to believe this was nothing more than customary profit-taking which comes in at the week-end following sharp advances.

HEAVY CHEMICALS GAIN IN CANADA

Toronto, March 1.—A tremendous advance in the heavy chemical industry in Canada is foreseen by Arthur B. Purvis, president and managing director of Canadian Industries Limited, in commenting upon the recent acquisition by his company of the Grasselli Company, with headquarters in Toronto.

"Our company," said Mr. Purvis, when interviewed at his offices, "on entering the heavy chemical field, purchased the stock of the Canadian Salt Company, through which it acquired an interest in the very important alkali industry involving the manufacture and sale of salt, liquid chlorine, caustic soda and so on. The Grasselli Company manufactures sulphuric, muriatic and acetic acids, Glaubers Salt, etc., and in addition handles a large heavy chemical re-sale business."

Mr. Purvis intimated that further important steps are contemplated by his company in order to round out its new heavy chemical activities, which by centralizing control will give a new impetus to the industry in this country.

Another recent acquisition of Canadian Industries Limited is the Canadian Ammonia Company, which does by far the largest part of the anhydrous and aqua ammonia business of Canada.

Canadian Industries Limited, which enjoys the technical and operating backing of Imperial Chemical Industries Limited of Great Britain and E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company Inc., of the United States—two of the world's leading chemical enterprises—already stands pre-eminent in Canada in the manufacture of explosives, sporting ammunition, Duco, artificial leather, celluloid Pyralin), etc.

An extensive national advertising campaign is being launched above the signature of Canadian Industries Limited, which will tell the public something more about the various industries which it controls, and what the C.I.L. oval trademark is coming to mean.

MONTREAL STOCKS

(By B.C. Bond Corporation's Leased Wire.)

CANADIAN OILS CONTINUE RISE; VENTURES BREAKS

Montreal, March 1.—Some of the mining and oil issues were the features of the Canadian market to-day.

In the oils, Home continued its rise, reaching the 15.75-16.00 level. A. P. Consolidated sold up to 2.80.

In the mines, Big Missouri was subjected to a bear raid and sold down as low as 151, but recovered to over 165.

Ventures Limited, suffered a bad crack, breaking from its high the last few days at 14.25 to as low as 8.00, and then recovering a bit to over 9.00 to-day. President Lindley issued the following statement on Ventures:

"The 300,000 shares of the company's stock are now being sold by the company, making the issues stock of Ventures Limited at 6,346,705, out of a total authorized capitalization on 10,000,000 shares. As has been stated it was originally intended to offer only 100,000 shares at $8 per share. These shares must not be regarded as an investment, but as a venture, as the name of the company suggests, and those who cannot afford to so consider them should not send in any subscription."

Some interesting and hitherto unknown information is also given regarding the holding of Ventures Limited, as follows: Twenty-six thousand shares Sudbury Basin, 46,123 shares Sherrit Gordon and 1,344,165 shares Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited; also, foreign securities of a total market value of $1,000,000, in addition to the foregoing. The president states the company has substantial interests in a number of promising prospects, against which no specific value is placed on its books.

SUGAR

New York, March 1—Another new low record for the season was established in the raw sugar market when a sale was confirmed of 48,000 bags of Philippines in port to a refiner at 3.68 delivered. Cuban sugar, however, was held slightly above this level, with a sale reported of 1,500 bags to an operator at equal to about 3.73.

The refined market was unchanged at 4.90 for fine granulated.

STOCK MARKETS — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, March 1.—Wheat: Wheat was strong again to-day and further gains were made. Trade volume was not large, but offerings were light, and there were buying orders drifting into the pit throughout, most of which appeared to be speculative and on spreads between here and Chicago, while at the same time there was some buying by one large continental house. Both wheat and corn were strong in Chicago, and this encouraged the local bulls to take on more wheat.

Export sales appeared to be very small with the foreigner not showing much interest. Cash market continued quiet, but there was a little better demand for certain grades from shippers, and mills, and with offerings still very light, spreads were unchanged to quarter better. Most of the buying here is in the deferred months. October at one time gaining ¼ on the May, while there was a fair volume of buying of July against sales of Chicago July. This seems to indicate that any bullish movement must come from new crop conditions.

Liverpool was firm, but did not fully reflect the upturn on this side yesterday. Broomhall admits demand is rather slow, but expects better buying by the contingent in the near future. Reports from Winter wheat territory are becoming a little more favorable and from interests that are generally reliable it is learned that it is not expected that Winter killing has been more than normal.

Country marketings in Western Canada have been larger every day this week than a year ago, and it is evident there is still a lot of wheat to come forward. Do not believe that upturns will be more than temporary.

Coarse grains: These markets were steady, being fractionally lower most of the day, but firmed up in the late trade, largely in sympathy with the strength in wheat and corn. Trade volume was small, demand thin, and no export business could be confirmed. No pressure in evidence.

Flax: This market was stronger and further interest was shown by American crushers, although actual business was smaller.

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Chicago, March 1.—Wheat—In spite of big deliveries and indifferent cables, wheat developed a strong tone to-day, again giving evidence that accumulation is going on although all the time. The open interest again showed a surprising increase. The total at the close yesterday was 141,791,000 bushels. Whatever the basis for the buying is, the evidence is plain that buying is of tremendous volume. Deliveries to-day were 2,768,000 bushels.

March, however, was relatively firm. The deliveries had no special significance owing to the wide spread between March and May. World's consumption promises to far exceed all previous records this year, and this minimizes the effect of big stocks in this country, especially as the possibility of smaller crops in many countries this year may make a liberal carryover welcome. Political news may be the basis for some of the buying.

Crop damage will have to be disclosed later if there has been more than the usual amount. Clearances for the week were 8,631,000 bushels. We look for a nervous market but prefer to keep working on the buying side on all recessions.

Corn—Persistent buying was again in evidence in this grain with a good advance, the March especially firm. Deliveries were 1,355,000 bushels. March corn, however, was the strongest delivery and the gesture of delivering the corn did not have much effect. Cash demand is fair with extremely light country offerings.

The basis being unchanged, with shipping sales of 44,000 bushels. This country cleared 1,622,000 bushels for the week which is a fair amount and it will not be surprising to see a better export demand later. Argentine reports continue in conflict, estimates of the surplus to-day ranging from 165,000,000 bushels to 250,000,000 bushels.

We believe the domestic situation will continue strong and purchase of corn are advised on the setbacks.

Oats—Narrow trading market, prices rallying slightly with corn. Cash sales were 30,000 bushels. Deliveries were 1,345,000. The market is a two sided proposition.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

(Over H. E. Hunning's Leased Wire)

Toronto, March 1.—Solloway, Mills and Co. to-day say: Big Missouri shares have been steadily losing ground declining a few points daily. Some suggest that a little further decline will put the shares in an attractive position as there was a tremendous amount of stock taken above 2.00. However, if any large holders of 2.00 stock get pinched in the market, it would prove an additional source of weakness.

VANCOUVER MINING MARKET

Vancouver, March 1—Vancouver's stock market, heavily dominated by the oil issues, saw still higher prices in the Alberta share list this forenoon, when Home Oil climbed from 15.50 to 16 and Mayland rose from 6.10 to 6.60 under brisk trading. A. P. Cons sold around 2.50, Dalhousie from 2.25 to 2.45, Fabyan up to 8½, Illinois-Alberta from 1.15 to 1.35 and Freehold between 1.50 and 1.55.

There was little attention paid to any issues but the oil, with the result that mine stock prices eased off again with light trading throughout the morning. But Grandview was steady at 64 and 65, Rufus at 38, Marmot River Gold at 9, Oregon Copper at 72, and Kootenay King from 40 to 42.

Reeves-McDonald and Pend Oreille were soft. Reeves sold at 3.55 and Pend Oreille at 12.60, with little stock offered in either case.

George Copper broke to 8.00, Sunloch was untraded, and others more or less neglected.

SON OF CATTLE KING ON HOLIDAY

T. M. Burns, son of Pat Burns, the "cattle king" of Calgary, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon on a holiday visit. He has been touring and recently terminated a visit to the West Indies, having been absent from his home in Calgary for the last six months. While in Victoria Mr. Burns is staying at the Empress Hotel.

Other visitors registered at the Empress are W. B. Carmichael, of Sydney, N.S.W., and W. Stedart, of Perth, West Australia, both of whom arrived by the liner Niagara last night from Sydney.

Park Timber Preservation Is Objective

Chamber Directors Also Seek Protection For Beautiful Buttle Lake

Expropriation of timber in Strathcona Park by the Provincial Government in order that it may be turned over to the National Parks branch of the Dominion Government is the object of a resolution endorsed by directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to-day. The motion was drawn up and referred to the body by the tourist trade group of the chamber.

In addition to this the chamber also urges that in granting power rights in the neighborhood of the area, nothing shall be done to interfere with the natural beauty or tamper with the waters of Buttle Lake.

Considerable discussion centred on this point. C. L. Harrison pointed out that the Dominion Government parks branch was eager to have the area as a national park but would not have it if the natural beauty of the timber was in any way spoiled. He also explained that in development of electrical power at Elk Falls, it would be necessary to raise Buttle Lake, which would have a detrimental effect upon the scenic beauty of the lake.

FINE ASSET

Dan Campbell declared the Strathcona Park area was one of the finest tourist assets of the Island.

"We must have power on Vancouver Island, especially in that neighborhood," he added. "But I believe that power can be developed without destroying the natural beauty of the location."

The resolution will be forwarded to the Vancouver Board of Trade for endorsation.

Several minor matters were dealt with by the directors to-day.

GREATER VICTORIA

A committee of six members including Major H. C. Holmes, G. E. Haynes J. L. Beckwith, C. W. Pangman, E. H. Wilson and Carew Martin will form the chamber's delegation to a meeting to be held early in March to discuss the Greater Victoria question. A communication from the Kiwanis Club asked that the chamber co-operate in this matter.

Secretary George I. Warren read a certified copy of the judgment of the railway commission o ninter-switching which was filed.

In a letter from Major J. A. Motherwell, chief fisheries inspector at Vancouver, the board was informed that a peramnent fisheries officer would be appointed with headquarters at Victoria in the near future.

GRAIN RATES

The Shipping Federation of British Columbia is seeking the support of the chamber in protesting against any change in domestic grain freight rates which would have the effect of diverting the grain traffic through Pacific Coast P.S. ports. The port committee of the chamber will thoroughly discuss this question.

Mr. Harrison reported to the board on the meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, held in Nanaimo recently, to discuss road policies. He also reported on the annual meeting of the Sidney Board of Trade, commenting that out of this gathering had arisen a united spirit among the four boards of the lower end of Vancouver Island.

Mrs. T. Scouler, Coast Pioneer, Died Thursday

Vancouver, March 1—After fifty years' residence in Canada, forty-two of them spent in New Westminster and Vancouver, Lillias W. Scouler, eighty-two, widow of Rev. Thomas Scouler, pioneer minister of New Westminster, died Thursday at the home of her son, G. T. Scouler, Tenth Avenue East.

She was honorary president of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada and was a noted church worker. Her husband died in May, 1904. She is survived by one son.

Anaconda Bonds Again Surge Up

New York, March 1—The bond market was firm in the early trading today, but the demand was confined to a handful of issues, in which those with conversion privileges were prominent.

Anaconda Copper 7s again surged upward in sympathy with the stock gaining more than two points. Demand for International Telephone convertible 4½s likewise followed an upturn of the stock. The issue was bought in fair volume rising more than a point.

Rails showed moderate improvement, New Haven convertible 6s gaining 1½ points, while Pennsylvania gold 4¾s were firm in fair demand. Bangor and Aroostoook 4s jumped more than two points to a new high, and St. Paul adjustment 5s were well bought. B. and O. issues, however, were inclined to heaviness.

Public Service of New Jersey 4½s was a strong point of utilities, gaining more than two points.

The foreign list was steady. Chile Republics 6s and Kingdom of Italy 7s gained fractionally. U.S. Government obligations were neglected in early trading.

Washington, March 1.—By a vote of 283 to 90 the House yesterday passed the Jones bill, which provides more severe penalties for violations of the prohibition law. The measure will be sent to the President.

HOUSE LAUNCHES FULL INQUIRY INTO WHOLE MILK PROBLEM IN B.C.

PRODUCER MEASURE

"This is a producer measure," he declared. "The consumer has no place in workings or results of this bill and neither have the distributors."

The measure, he emphasized, specifically stated that the committee of adjustment could exercise no control over milk prices or over its sale in any way.

Mr. Macken said the operating cost of the committee of adjustment would be small. He thought the chairman should be an accountant and the two other members should represent the co-operative and independent dairymen. These officials should not have to spend all their time on this work.

The bill did not cover the production of "certified" and "preferred raw" milk as the output of these products was too small to create a marketing problem.

In answer to questions from E. C. Sherwood, independent Vancouver milk dealer, Mr. Macken said the bill could be adapted by any area in the Province which wanted it, but he did not believe it would be desired by farmers outside the Fraser Valley.

In answer to further questions Mr. Macken said the solution of marketing problems might result in an increase in production. If milk consumption did not increase a larger proportion of milk would have to be manufactured, he said. But he denied emphatically that under this condition prices would be raised for an increase in price would reduce consumption and injure the production.

CONSUMPTION LESS

"When the price goes up the consumption goes down, and the price increase does not compensate us for the loss we sustain in turning more milk into manufactured products," he declared.

NO SURPLUS

G. N. Smith, a milk producer, declared there was no milk surplus as British Columbia was importing $5,000,000 worth of dairy products a year. There was, however, a surplus of fluid milk and always would be.

He protested against legislation controlling an article as perishable as milk which had to be sold immediately after being produced.

He said the Fraser Valley milk output would decrease in the next few years as less stock was being raised.

"This bill will simply put a rope around the neck of the dairymen," he protested, declaring the bill would restrict production instead of stimulating agriculture.

Edward North, dairyman of Sea Island, who produces preferred raw and certified milk, said there would never be a surplus of this product on account of the difficulty and cost of its production.

Samuel Shannon, of Cloverdale, said that men who maintained an even production at all seasons should have a preference over those who produced heavily in Summer and lightly in Winter.

He urged that no legislation be passed until the Clement milk report had been printed and distributed generally. Until marketing legislation had been a success in other branches of agriculture, it should not be attempted in dairying, he urged, adding that no legislation like that proposed had ever been attempted in Canada or the United States.

"This bill, he said, "discourages the man who is trying to put a high class article on the market."

W. F. Jones, of Eburne, only British Columbia producer of certified milk, strangly supported the bill as necessary to stabilize the whole milk situation.

T. C. Brooke, another dairyman who opposed the milk bill a year ago, urged that the measure be given a trial if the committe thought this plan wise. He decided Oriental penetration was driving farmers into dairying and creating a surplus.

POTATO GROWERS

Two potato growers from the Fraser Valley, W. Montgommery and R. A. Coleman, appeared before the committee asking to be exempted from the Market Act on the grounds that they grew early potatoes and an assurance was given by Colonel MacLelan, chairman of the district, that it was not his intention to place any restrictions on early pototoes.

RESOURCES OF WEST ARE HOUSE TOPIC

Premier King Tells Commons Provinces Are to Be Given Equal Treatment

Ottawa, March 1.—Natural resources were debated again in the Commons yesterday afternoon and last night. When adjournment came at 11 p.m., the discussion had not been concluded. It was the third day of the debate.

Premier King, sharing in the debate, said the Government intended to stand by its policy of returning the natural resources to put the Western Provinces in the position they would have been in had they held them since the time of their establishment.

The original motion, offered by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg, North Centre, declared that "in the opinion of this House, no disposition of the natural resources under the control of the Federal Government should be effective until ratified by Parliament."

An amendment, introduced by T. L. Church, Conservative, Toronto, in the afternoon, was declared out of order by Speaker Lemieux. It asked for a review of the lease by the Dominion Government of the Seven Sisters Falls to the Winnipeg Electric Company and other leases, grants or permits. This review, the amendment advocated, should be made by the mines, forests and water powers committee.

Another Conservative amendement was ruled out of order by the Deputy Speaker, and one on a challenge by the Opposition the House upheld the ruling.

GUTHRIE AMENDMENT

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, acting Conservative Leader during the absence of Hon. R. B. Bennett, offered an amendment which the chair accepted. This amendment would restrict Mr. Woodsworth's motion to waterpowers instead of natural resources.

DELAYS NOT DESIRED

During the debate on the Guthrie amendment Premier King declared that since his administration had come into office it had sought to hasten the return of natural resources to the Western provinces. The provinces of the Dominion were anxious to have waterpowers under their control for industrial development. The amendment of Mr. Guthrie, who came from a highly industrialized province, Premier King proceeded, was calculated "absolutely to divide Eastern and Western Canada."

Mr. King said the older provinces were free to carry on their waterpower development without Federal sanction.

COPPER PRICE ADVANCES AGAIN

New York, March 1.—Copper Exporters Inc. has advanced the foreign price of copper to 19¾ cents a pound, c.i.f. Hamburg and London. This is up ½ cent a pound from yesterday.

The increase has followed good sales abroad, and the fact that buying late Wednesday in the domestic market sent the price in this country to 19 cents delivered, up one cent from last Saturday.

Small sales of copper in the domestic market have already been made at 19¾ cents a pound delivered. While these are not typical of the market, they indicate the probability of a price advance before the week-end to 19¾ cents, with the price probably not stopping until somewhere between 19½ and 20 cents has been reached.

Dow Jones News Bureau says that neither fabricators nor producers can do anything to stop the advance, as the ultimate consumers are trying to buy here and abroad more copper than they should, leaving producers short of metal. No decline in price can be expected before June at the earliest.

CHARGE FOLLOWS DEATH OF MAN

Vancouver, March 1—A fracture of the skull and severe internal injuries suffered in a collision between his automobile and an interurban electric car at Keefer Street and Clark-Drive at 9 a.m. Thursday resulted in the death in a hospital here twelve hours later of William Reith, aged fifty-eight, of Cotton Drive, heating plant engineer of the Vancouver city schools.

The motorman of the interurban, James T. Patterson of New Westminster, was arrested on a formal charge of manslaughter. He was released on bail bonds of $5,000.

Election Trial On the Prairies

Arrest of Man in Athabaska Constituency to Be Followed By Others

Edmonton, March 1.—Starting with the arrest of Thomas J. Cornwall yesterday on a charge of forgery in connection with the Athabaska election scandals, it is believed there will be other sensational developments in the next day or two. It is expected other arrests will be made by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in a final drive to clear up these cases.

Cornwall, who is alleged to be the mysterious H. M. Barton whose activities at the Frog Lake poll in the general election of 1925, were referred to in the report by Mr. Justice Clarke, was released on $2,000 bail. The case was adjourned for eight days.

PROSECUTOR AT WORK

A. B. Macdonald has been appointed as prosecutor by the Federal authorities and is taking the necessary steps in this connection, acting on instructions from the Solicitor-General at Ottawa.

When the case against Cornwall and any others will open is not yet known, but it is not expected it will be within two weeks, as many of the witnesses are in the country around Gold Lake and it will take some time to get them here on account of road conditions.

'Fresh from the gardens'

THE OLD ORDER CHANGES

By DAVID LYALL

"Well, you see, I had very little chance of studying the system at close quarters in Scotland, for I was born in the industrial class and never left the Clyde till I came here. It was war against capital there all the time, the same in its essence, but not so much against individuals. On the land it narrows down and becomes a more personal thing. It is in a sense easier to fight syndicates and trusts because they don't give you the nearness of flesh and blood."

When Manning did not immediately answer, Freeland put another question.

"You'll be needing money for this venture. If you're going to convert the big house as you say, this is the very worst time? Do you know what bricklayers are getting just now?"

"I've an idea, but I'm not going to lay bricks, only close up doors and make a few easily removable partitions."

"It'll need money all the same, ready money, and Mary will not come to you empty handed."

"But that is how I want her, Mr. Freeland," Manning flashed back. "And she is agreed on that point."

"What's the matter with my own money?" asked Freeland, touched on a sensitive point. "It's clean, whatever folk may say."

"Good heavens, there is no suggestion of that kind!" cried Manning in distress. "Please believe that Mary and I happen to share ideas about capital. Mardocks has got to pay for its own salvation and cure, that is all."

"Look here, Geoffrey: suppose I may call you that, if you are to be my good son, I've become a capitalist in spite of myself. It's not my fault, it's the fault of the Government, that knows less about handling finance than a bairn. There's no system in them, or rather, so many systems, so many cooks at the broth that it's spoiled. I thought to get rid of it by buying land and a place and setting an example of how landed folk should administer estates. Then I got feared at it, for there's something in the possession of land in the position and prestige it confers which seems to blast, or at least corrode, the soul. I'm to get rid of that money somehow. I'm in the throes of it, now. Maybe you'll help me, you and Mary, when you've made a kirk or a mill of Mardocks."

Manning's eyes glowed. The simple sincere soul of Robert Freeland seemed to him one of the finest he had ever encountered. He realized very poignantly from what source Mary had obtained her beautiful outlook on life, her great humanity, her love for the whole world. In the woman's heart it had expanded and grown more godlike, but the essence was the same.

"You make me feel very humble, Mr. Freeland. Beside you, I am but a crude adventurer in life. You have made good, and I know how you are respected in Basingfold and wherever your name is known."

"I've tried to do my duty and mark you, my man, it's not so easy as it looks. The man who does his duty by work folk in these days earns what little may come to him. They've got clean away from the middle of the road, Major, they've lost grip. I know what I'm talking about, for there is nothing in the lives of working folk I don't understand from personal experience. My father never had more than a pound a week. It's my mother you'll need to talk to. She'll tell you more about the inwardness of great industrial questions than you'll learn from books in a life. The crux of the whole matter is that work has become merely a means to an end. There is no joy in it until work for work's sake is lifted up again to the altar where God Almighty placed it for the salvation of men; there'll be neither peace nor progress in this country nor in any country under Heaven."

He spoke with a passion which swept Manning along as on the crest of a great wave.

"They've lost all sense of proportion, particularly where brains and money are concerned. As I tell them, where would the workman's hands be, what would they be worth to them, without the controlling brains that show him how to use them. It's got to be a combine or the result is nothing. But they won't listen. Go down to the Basin any night you like and you'll hear more nonsense, aye, and blasphemy talked in an hour than you could digest in a week. I tell you what, Geoffrey, there'll have to be a little wholesome blood letting, and the sooner we get it the better. What we're doing now is as if some poor ignorant quack, not half conversant with his remedies, was trying to heal a mighty disease that needs the surgeon's knife. But I'm blethering. I might be taking a cue from the Basin. It's a quarter past one o'clock. Come inside and get a bite of dinner and see Mary's mother."

CHAPTER XX

It was by accident rather than design that Manning and Mrs. Freeland had not yet met.

He had paid several visits to Coppetts while she and Bee were at Scarborough, and Mary had left for her camp the day after their return. It was with a feeling of genuine interest and anticipation, therfore, that he accompanied Freeland through the now familiar door in the wall which immediately brought them to the front of the Mill House.

It was looking its best with the flame and the gold of the creeper all over it, peeping in at every window, and trying to oust a few late rose blooms, wooed to linger by the warm September sunshine. The door stood open, the black and white tiles were scrubbed as clean as soap and scrubbing brush could make them.

Deborah was still at the Mill House, though she had intimated her intention of going and taking care of old Mrs. Freeland, just as soon as her mistress could find two good maids. The search for these remote and shadowy treasures was then occuping a considerable part of Mrs. Freeland's day, and furnishing her with ample conversational matter for the evenings.

She had had no idea, dwelling in smug satisfaction with Deborah's very faithful service at command, that the woes of her fellow householders were genuine.

She had had an enlightening few days. It was a fortunate thing for everybody concerned that Freeland had brought his distinguished guest in to luncheon on a day when there was plenty to eat.

He often laughed at his wife's apologies for a scanty table when he brought odd callers across from the mill. He had never once had cause to be ashamed of what was set on the table, either for him or his guests.

It was just her way of going on and now he paid no attention to it, nor even troubled to send a warning intimation through the door in the wall.

This was a fine compliment to her housekeeping, which in her heart of hearts she fully appreciated, even while occasionally grumbling at his lack of consideration.

Tuesday was often a remnant day, finishing up the Sunday joint, but as it happened, Tom and his wife had both dined and supped at the Mill House on Sunday and there were consequently no remains.

A very succulent beefsteak pie, a creamy milk pudding, and some tartlets, light as air, provided a delightful lunch. Harriet piously thanked God that she was so well equipped, and also that, after making the pastry, she had put on a clean blouse. She was therefore all smiles when she came running breathless down the stairs to receive the Squire of Mardocks.

"Mother, this is Major Manning," Freeland said, "very anxious to see you, lass," he added. "He's got something to say to you. I'm not sure that you'll be wanting to hear it."

Harriet's large blue eyes and her ridiculously youthful looking face then smiled on Manning.

"I'm very glad to see you, Major Manning, whatever you've got to say to me. I've heard of your visits, and was sorry I wasn't here to receive you."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Wolf's Surprise

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"My sakes! Uncle Wiggily is certainly getting to be a heavy rabbit!" thought the Wolf as he dragged the rolled rug up the hill on top of which the Bad Chap had his den. "He sure is hard to pull along! But, no matter, the fatter he is the better supper I'll have!"

Grunting and puffing, the Woozie Wolf kept on up the hill dragging the rug in which he thought Uncle Wiggily was rolled. But as we know, from having read the story last night, it was a tramp dog who was rolled up in the rug, and not our dear old Uncle Wiggily at all. The bunny rabbit had been beating a rug when the tramp dog shuffled along.

Uncle Wiggily hired the tramp dog for the three bones—a large one, a small one and a middle-sized bone, to beat the rug for him. But the tramp dog was lazy and when Uncle Wiggily went off to seek adventures, the tramp dog took the rug off the line, rolled up in it and went to sleep.

The Wolf pulled the rug over a stone.

Then along came the Wolf, who, from afar off on top of the hill, had seen the rabbit beating the rug, and who, coming down, thought the rabbit was rolled up in it.

"Won't Uncle Wiggily be surprised when I unroll the rug and he finds himself in my den!" chuckled the Wolf as he kept on dragging the load up hill. "Oh, what a surprise!"

Now all this while Uncle Wiggily was on the other side of the hill looking for an adventure so he could put it in a story. And the tramp dog was asleep inside the rolled rug all this same time. But as last the tramp dog began to awaken. First he opened one eye and then he opened another eye and then he opened another eye—

Oh, just a moment please! A dog has only two eyes, hasn't he? I must have been thinking of something else. Anyhow, the tramp dog opened his two eyes and awakened and as he felt himself being dragged along inside the rolled rug he said to himself:

"I must be dreaming! I guess I'm having a ride in an airship!"

Then the Wolf pulled the rug over a stone and there was quite a bump which the tramp dog felt and he said:

"No, I can't be having a dream ride in an airship. It must be an automobile. But that is almost as nice."

Then the Wolf had dragged the rug into his den and he banged it against the wall as hard as he could. Inside the rug the dog felt this bang and he thought:

"The dream isn't so pleasant now. The automobile must have a punctured tire!"

And then the Wolf began unrolling the rug, at the same time laughing and saying:

"Come on out, Uncle Wiggily! I've caught you this time! You didn't know, when you rolled up in the rug to go to sleep, that I would come and catch you; did you? Aren't you surprised?"

And just then the Wolf had the biggest surprise of all; for when he opened the rug all the way and saw, inside it, a big, shabby tramp dog instead of a fat, tender rabbit, why that Wolf gave one howl and ran out of his den. For he was afraid of a tramp dog, was this Wolf.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the tramp dog. "Speaking of surprises, I guess the biggest one is for that Wolf. And I'm a little surprised myself, at sleeping so soundly. And I guess Uncle Wiggily will be surprised when he comes back from his adventures and finds me and his rug gone.

"But he is a kind old rabbit gentleman, and it isn't right for me to tease him this way. I must take his rug back to him and finish beating out the dust so he will give me three bones: a large one, a small one and a middle-sized one."

So the dog began pulling the rug back down the hill but found it hard work. So he thought to himself:

"The Wolf dragged me uphill and rolled in the rug. Now I'll get inside the rug again and roll down hill." And that's just what the tramp dog did. Over and over again, just like a pumpkin, he rolled down the hill inside the rug and just as he reached the bottom, where Uncle Wiggily's bungalow was built, along came hopping the rabbit gentleman.

"Well, what's all this?" asked the bunny in surprise.

"Oh, it's just a new way I thought of to get the dust out of the rug!" barked the tramp dog. And, as true as I'm telling you that rug was as clean as new. Bumping up hill and down had knocked out all the dust. But the tramp dog told all that had happened, and how the Wolf was surprised, so Mr. Longears laughed and paid the three bones.

So the rug was cleaned, the rabbit had an adventure, the Wolf was surprised and the tramp dog had three bones to eat. And if the snow man will shoot an arrow from the rainbow, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the big wind.

Peck Explains Axe Wielding

"I Demanded Their Heads and They Rolled in Basket," He Says

Gets Behind Plea For a Ferry For Salt Spring Island

How he had dismissed six road foremen and one assessor in his riding because they had played politics under the Liberal Government was told to the Legislature yesterday by Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C., Conservative of the Islands. Colonel Peck declared he had "demanded their heads and they had rolled in the basket," and he vigorously defended his actions.

With an intimate picture of politics on Salt Spring Island, Colonel Peck linked a plea to the Government to give the islands of the Gulf of Georgia ferry communication with Vancouver Island, to develop them and assist the city.

TRIBUTE TO CURRIE

In opening his speech Colonel Peck uttered a stirring tribute to his old commander, General Currie, who, he said, had done great service for "an ungrateful people," and whose name would be illustrious long after the names of his detractors had been forgotten.

He urged the Government to treat the Opposition fairly and generously and added that he had always received courtesy from the former Ministry.

While not criticizing the West Coast Road project, Colonel Peck declared a proper ferry system to the Gulf Islands would be of far greater use to the city of Victoria, both to encourage tourists and to increase business. The islands at present were throttled by lack of transportation, he said, and he described in some detail the possibilities of the islands, now largely undeveloped.

As a first step in giving the islands adequate transportation Colonel Peck advocated a ferry service between Fulford Harbor on Salt Spring Island to the Saanich Peninsula. With this service the Salt Spring farmer could leave his farm in the morning with his truck, sell his produce in Victoria at the Public Market, buy his supplies and return in time for the evening's milking. Later ferries should be provided for all the islands in the Gulf.

"Victoria is asleep at the switch in neglecting this business," Colonel Peck asserted. "This would mean more than several West Coast Roads and the cost would be trifling in comparison."

He also advocated a small ferry for the route between Gabriola Island and Nanaimo, this with other ferries to be operated by the Government, or owned privately and assisted by the Government.

PATRONAGE EXPLAINED

Turning to questions of patronage, Colonel Peck said all members wished that the patronage system could be divorced from their work, but in a big country like British Columbia the Government was forced to reply to a great extent upon members of the House for advice. The member was bound to favor the men who had put him in office with few exceptions. He was not going to hunt among his opponents for men to fill government jobs, he explained.

The Union Government, during the war, had tried to abolish patronage in the federal field, he recalled, but the Liberal Party afterwards had largely destroyed the results of this effort and, in any case, the public did not support it to any great extent. He assured the House, however, that whatever the present Provincial Government did about patronage it would be a great improvement over the behavior of the former Liberal Government.

"They didn't buy a pound of nails without thinking of the political effect," he declared.

He went on to declare that he and other Conservative members were protecting Liberals in the Civil Service who had not played politics.

"What about Major Hamilton?" asked Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Liberal of Revelstoke.

"Put your question on the order paper!" retorted Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, from whose department Major Hamilton was removed, as assistant purchasing agent.

Dr. Sutherland intimated that the Opposition would seek to find out about the Hamilton case in due course.

HEADS CUT OFF

Discussing patronage in his own riding, Colonel Peck declared: "During the campaign I said that any man who had played politics in office would have short shift with me. That's what I did. I demanded their heads and they rolled into the basket."

He said six road foremen and one assessor had been dismissed since the election. All but one were good sports and did not complain, but the sixth, Joseph Ackerman, a road foreman had "squealed." Colonel Peck referred to an editorial in The Times on this case, noting that this paper had deplored the patronage thus displayed.

"It was with the greatest pain and regret that I had to remove that man from the position he held," he said, referring to Mr. Ackerman.

Mr. Ackerman, he pursued, had said in a letter to The Times that he had been removed in order that the Government might get even with a prominent Liberal family on Salt Spring Island.

A BANEFUL INFLUENCE

"This family," he said, "has had a baneful influence on the politics of Salt Spring Island. The man in question permitted himself to become a tool and instrument of that family. I would have been glad to have saved him his job but I never visited the Island but I was beseiged with complaints about his work. After taking part in this ruthless misrule he cannot come on the day of reckoning and say 'My hands are clean.'"

To support his assertion that Mr. Ackerman should have been dismissed, Colonel Peck told how eight returned men with wives and children had been dismissed from work on the roads after the 1924 election because they had voted for him. And yet when one man was dismissed by the Conservative Government there was a great protest.

As another example of Liberal patronage, he said, there were two large commercial firms on Salt Spring Island, one Conservative, one Liberal. In twelve years of Liberal Government the Liberal firm received business of $22,239 from the Government and the Conservative firm $1,930.

William Ackerman, brother of the dismissed road foreman, had been kept in his job as foreman at the southern end of the Island, Colonel Peck said, because he had not played politics and had treated all men fairly.

While realizing that under existing conditions the Government might have to borrow money, Colonel Peck declared in conclusion: "I think the time is going to come when we have got to stop borrowing. We can't keep on borrowing forever. We must adopt Spartan means. We have got to cut and prune and sacrifice to bring out expenditures within our revenues."

Kosciusko, the great Polish general, wishing to send some good wine to a clergyman at Solothurn, commissioned a young man named Zeltuer to take it, fearing that his own servant might smuggle part of it.

To help Zeltuer on his errand, Kosciusko made him take his favorite horse. When Zoltuer returned he informed the general he would never ride his horse again unless he gave him his purse at the same time.

"Why?" asked Kosciusko.

"Whenever a poor man takes off his hat and asks for charity," replied the young man, "your horse stops, and he will not move until the man receives a dole. I had no money with me on this journey and to satisfy the horse had to be always going through the motion of extending charity."

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tree Man turned and looked around. Said he, "What was that raspy sound?" The Tinymites all stood real still, as quiet as could be. Then Carpy said, "It's right near by. Come on, now, everyone! Well's try to find out what is making it, and see what we can see."

They dashed across a little hill and waited there a while until wee Coppy cried, "I see some men right over by those trees." The Tree Man said, "That's what I thought, and this time all those men are caught. I'm going to frighten them away. Just watch me, if you please."

And then he scampered 'cross the ground. At first he didn't make a sound. The Tinies stood and watched him, wondering just what was in store. Said Clowny, "He's a real queer sort. I guess he's having heaps of sport. He's surely running toward those men. I wonder what it's for."

"You'll soon find out," another snapped. "It looks like all those men are trapped. The Tree Man's going to scold them 'cause their cutting down the trees." They soon found out that this was right. The old Tree Man, with all his might, jumped in among the woodsmen, where he landed on his knees.

The woodsmen all seemed mighty scared as Master Tree Man jumped and rared. "Get out of here," he loudly cried. "Tree cutting, men, is wrong. The trees die off when they are cut. You should be punished right now, but this time I'll let you go if you will quickly run along."

Just then the Tinies heard a squeak. A big oak tree began to speak. "Hello there, Tinymites," it said. "What are you doing here?" "Just playing," little Carpy said. "Oh, all right, then, go right ahead," replied the monstrous tree. "There's not a thing that you need fear."

To-morrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1929

Astrologers read this as rather an unfavorable day in planetary direction. Caution should be exercised through the busiest hours of the day.

Farmers may find much to contend with in weather conditions, but they should not be discouraged, for there is a sign of much promise for them.

Culture, which has intrigued residents of the United States now is to be more indicated in speech, the seers prophesy.

Americans are soon to speak a new tongue, so far as tohe placing and pronunciation are concerned, the seers prophesy.

State as well as federal servants may expect many surprises that belong to reform measures and new systems of carrying on the people's business.

Much reform litigation in which women are interested is indicated and increased efficiency is promised by those who read the stars.

Under this sway there may be a decided tendency to do away with the old, and for that reason employees of long-standing may meet ill luck.

All the signs seem to favor the intellectual and educated classes, who will bring to all vocations scientific training.

Mars and Saturn, which ruled the earth at the time of the Winter solstice are supposed to encourage corruption and fraud among various branches of public service.

The uncovering of evil will be widespread, it is foretold, and the struggle of the people will encourage high ideals in politics as well as business.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year in which they should profit through real estate. Agriculture should be lucky for many.

Children born on this day probably will be successful and prosperous all through their careers. These subjects of Pisces usually are exceedingly honorable. They win confidence and have many friends. Girls may marry fortunately, rather late.

PACIFIC GROVE DUE TO-MORROW

King Brothers, local agents, although yet in receipt of no definite word, expect that the Furness Pacific motor liner Pacific Grove will dock here to-morrow afternoon from the United Kingdom by way of the Panama Canal and California ports.

She left Los Angeles on Tuesday night at 10 o'clock and is proceeding direct to Victoria, omitting the call at San Francisco. After discharging cargo here she will leave for Vancouver and Seattle.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. (Advt.)

Man Is Hoisted Aboard Niagara In Midpacific

The difficult transfer of a disabled man from one ship to another in a seaway, was told last night by officers of the liner Niagara on arrival here from Australia and New Zealand. On January 19, the Niagara was steaming south from Honolulu to Suva when a wireless message came from the freighter Walhemo, 100 miles away, stating that a member of the crew, William Hadaway, had fallen twenty-five feet into the forward hold of the ship, badly fracturing his wrists, and cutting and bruising his body severely.

Treatment in the Walhemo's hospital failed to relieve the man so the captain asked the Niagara for aid. That big liner steamed with all possible haste to the Walhemo, and the injured man was hoisted aboard the Niagara by means of a derrick while the passengers crowded round and watched with great interest the unusual proceedings. The disabled man was treated successfully by the Niagara's doctor and taken to Sydney.

U.S. Destroyers To Visit B.C. In July

Ottawa, March 1—The United States Government proposes to send six destroyers to visit British Columbia ports during the Summer of 1929. Three of these vessels will be at Victoria and three at Vancouver from July 11 till July 15. Announcement to this effect was made last night by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence.

Wendall-Beck Fight Should Produce Action

One of the best bouts seen in Victoria for some time is expected to-morrow night when Jimmy Beck of Tacoma, and Benny Wendall of Bellingham, meet in the semi-final to the Miller-Jackson ten-round go.

Both Wendall and Beck are considered two of the best junior welterweights on the Pacific Coast. They have fought here before, and the fans figure on seeing plenty of action when they step into the ring. The bout is scheduled to go six rounds.

In the other two preliminary bouts Wing Hay will meet Tommy O'Connell of Everett and Simon Joe, New Westminster Indian, will fight Jeff Regan of Seattle.

The first bout will start at 8.45 o'clock.

NIAGARA MEETS DENSE FOG ON ARRIVAL HERE

Was Twelve Hours Ahead of Time, However, From Australia and Honolulu

Brought in Heavy Passenger List For This Season of the Year

"We had an excellent trip with the exception of heavy fog at the entrance to the strait here," said Capt. T. V. Hill, commander of the liner Niagara which arrived here last evening at 9.30 o'clock from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu, twelve hours ahead of schedule. She was not due here until this morning.

HEAVY LIST

There were nearly 300 passengers in all classes aboard the Niagara, an exceptionally heavy list for this season of the year. The liner's first-class cabin accommodation was completely taken for the trip as far as Honolulu, where a large number left the vessel. When she arrived here, however, there were 143 passengers in the first saloon, sixty-four in the second, and eighty-eight in the third. There were a large number of Vancouver passengers aboard, returning after holidays spent in Honolulu while several Victorians were also among the passengers, returning from the Hawaiian Islands.

A number of passengers bound for the United States left the liner here and transferred to the Emma Alexander, lying at the other dock, for the trip to Seattle. The second cabin list showed a large number of people en route to the United Kingdom to spend the Spring and Summer months.

LIGHT CARGO

Cargo aboard the liner this trip was fairly light there only being 2,938 tons. Of this consignment sixty-two tons were for Victoria, made up mostly of New Zealand and butter for local merchants. A large shipment of butter went on to Vancouver for Canadian distribution. There was also a heavy shipment of onions.

The liner left for Vancouver at midnight. She will sail outbound to Honolulu and the Antipodes from Vancouver and Victoria next Wednesday with a heavy passenger list.

SALVAGE KING OFF ON LONG TOW TO JAPAN

Left Esquimalt This Morning at 2 o'Clock For Dutch Harbor to Pick Up Freighter

On the longest job of her career, which will take her all the way across the Pacific Ocean to Japan and back, the Pacific Salvage Company's powerful salvage vessel, Salvage King, steamed out of Esquimalt harbor this morning at 2 o'clock, and after passing Cape Flattery a few hours later, turned her nose in the direction of Dutch Harbor, where she is to pick up the disabled freighter Havilah and tow her with a 4,000,000-foot lumber cargo to Osaka.

It is expected that the King will take about seven days to complete the first stage of her long trip, and that she will reach Dutch Harbor next Thursday.

Word that the Salvage King had been awarded the contract to tow the big freighter to Japan, where she is to be scrapped, was first received in Victoria yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and twelve hours later the ship was proceeding to sea, after loading for what will probably be a trip of more than two months' duration. A crew of twenty-five was taken, and enough supplies for more than a month. Capt. J. M. Hewison is in charge of the vessel.

LONG TOW

It is expected that the tow from Dutch Harbor to Osaka will take from two to three weeks, depending upon weather conditions, which at this time of the year are not very favorable for such a job. From Osaka, the direct run back to Victoria, will take about two weeks, so that it will be the first of May before the King is back at this port. The distance to Dutch Harbor is approximately 1,710 miles, while that from the harbor to Osaka is another 2,783 miles.

A. C. Burdick, managing director of the Salvage Company, expects to hear from Capt. Hewison about noon to-morrow telling of the progress which the ship is making. Weather at this time is usually rough, but the Salvage King has before demonstrated her power to withstand conditions of any sort, and it is expected that she will be able to make the long trip without mishap. Before leaving the safety of the harbor here all accessories were removed from the decks in preparations for the great rollers which will probably sweep over the small ship.

Canadian Coaster Due Here To-morrow

Three days behind schedule, due to a delay in San Francisco, the Canadian National freighter, Canadian Coaster, is expected here sometime to-morrow with forty-seven tons of general cargo for discharge. She will go to the Ogden Point piers and will later proceed to Vancouver. She left 'Frisco on Wednesday night. Local offices will receive wireless advice to-morrow announcing the exact time of arrival here.

The Canadian Importer with 100 tons from Eastern Canada arrived here at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and left for the Mainland at 8 o'clock.

EXPECTED TO-MORROW FROM THE ORIENT

Bringing one of the heaviest local passenger lists since last Summer, the Pacific Steamship Company's coastwise liner, Emma Alexander, docked at the Rithet piers here last evening at 10.15 o'clock from San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Seventy-five passengers left the liner at this port, while seventy-two tons of general cargo were also left here.

Capt. Fred Nystrom, master of the vessel, reported a good trip from San Francisco with the exception of heavy blankets of fog encountered at the entrance to the Strait. The Emma left San Francisco on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Emma brought in six passengers who are wanted by Seattle police to face a number of criminal charges. These passengers were Margaret Oxford, Teddy Hatfield, Boyd Allen, Tommy McDonald, Robert Graves and Carl Neilson. The first four are wanted for burglary charges in Seattle. They were caught when they tried to rob a safe in Oakland on February 11. Graves faces a charge of forgery with three others now in Seattle, while Neilson is wanted on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences.

FEBRUARY SLACK SHIPPING MONTH FIGURES SHOW

February was a slack month for shipping at the Port of Victoria, figures released this morning by the Department of Customs showed. There were very few lumber vessels in port last month which accounted somewhat for this, while the fact that last month was a short one also helped to lessen the figures. Last month there were only 456,126 tons of shipping touched at Victoria, inbound and outbound, as compared to 517,024 tons in January, a decrease of 60,898 tons. Inbound there were sixty-one Canadian vessels in port, fifty United States ships, four United Kingdom, eight Japanese, one Dutch and one Norwegian. Outbound the ships were about the same.

MISHIMA MARU HAS 100 TONS

Due here next Saturday from ports in China and Japan, the N.Y.K. liner Mishima Maru, is bringing 100 tons of cargo for discharge at this port, a letter to A. H. Hebb, local agent, from company headquarters in Seattle this morning said. There are also seven second class passengers for this port. A heavy general cargo will go on to Seattle as well as eight first class passengers, two second class, and seventeen third class.

This is the Mishima's first trip to Victoria and Seattle in regular transpacific schedule. She left Yokohama last Saturday.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, March 1.—Purchase of the steamers Point Judith and Point Loboe from Swayne and Hoyt by the McCormick Steamship Company, was announced here yesterday by Charles L. Wheeler, vice-president and general manager of the latter line. The vessels are sister ships, and were built in Portland in 1918. They will be used in the coastwise service of the new owners, replacing the steamer Wahkena and Ernest H. Meyer, which were lost.

G. Hazen Nickerson, traveling passenger agent for the International Mercantile Marine Company, with headquarters in the local offices of the company, yesterday was appointed manager of the North Pacific Coast territory of the line, with headquarters in Seattle. Nickerson succeeds R. J. Griffiths, who has been transferred to the managership of the company's St. Louis office.

With Capt. A. C. Paulson on the bridge, the Panama Mail liner Guatemala sailed from here yesterday for New York by way of Mexico, Central America and Havana. The vessel left port with a full list.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

NEW CALIFORNIA LINE RUMORED

Passenger Steamship Service From Vancouver Is Suggested on Mainland

Vancouver, Feb. 27.—The Vancouver Province in its news columns to-day says:

"A passenger steamship service from Vancouver to California ports may be one of the matters now being discussed by official executives of the Canadian National Steamships Limited, according to rumor here. B. C. Keeley, Pacific Coast manager of the S.N.S. Limited, was called East early this week to confer with other executives regarding proposed developments of the company on this coast.

"At present there is no direct service from this port to California, though there is a very active one from Victoria on the passenger liners of the Pacific Steamship Company, a United States line. There is a large tourist traffic out of Western Canada to California.

"There was some talk last Summer of the Canadian Pacific Railway putting a California service into effect from this port, but that did not materialize."
